Although Vessel Escaped Unhurt, Does Not Relieve Possibilities—Believed When Wilson Lays Before Cabinet Will be Insistent Demands That More Emphatic Pronouncement be Made to Germany

distance behind the liner's rudders. Then the Orduña sped away. She was followed by the submarine, which rose to the surface, manned a gun of 12-inch caliber and shelled the fleet steamer. The attack was at ten minutes to 6 o'clock in the morning, when all but a few of her passengers lay sleeping in their bunks. The fleet steamer's passengers dressed hurriedly and went to the upper deck, where they put on life belts and took their places at the lifeboats. The ship heard the scream of the shells, saw the ocean's surface columns of smoke and the shells struck. When the fire grew hot they were ordered for their own protection to the lower deck below.

The passengers worried that the German warship coming with a bone in her teeth, but the tuna's flight was faster than the protest suit.

Protest will be made to the American government by at least one dozen of the United States and possibly others who were passengers aboard Wm. O. Thompson of Chicago, counsel to the Federal Industrial Relations, who went abroad in his official capacity last March, and was returning to complete making a report, he would make vigorous protest to the American government.

The American government will be several before I shall make my report to the attack and my protest," Thompson said. "I consider I am duty bound to do so. As a free citizen, I am entitled to an official report from the government to go to the press. I feel that I should bring the government's attention to the attack."

"I feel that I had a right to be on the line in the British flag, because I was a passenger ship. The fact that we had no munitions of war aboard justified this opinion. The Ordnance Department of the ship carried no munitions, was deliberately attacked without warning, pursued and rejected to shell fire. It is little wonder that we were filled with the thought of marvelous things to do to the ship."

"In making my protest to Washington I shall proceed along the line of the attack as I see it, combining with the protest a statement of the facts. The submarine hit an American ship—the bark Nord—die from Gulfport, Miss.,—was a ship upon which passengers held various opinions."

Captain Taylor's official report of the attack, issued late today by Cunard line, reads as follows:

"At 5:59 a. m., A. P. time, Ju lookout man on the afterbridge saw a small object on the horizon of the telephone, at the same time holding his hand downward and out of the port beam. The third officer immediately sent aft to inquire what was seen. He returned quickly and reported both men had seen a small object pass across the stern from the starboard within ten feet clear of the rudder.

the torpedo extending from the stern to about 200 yards into the port beam. About eight minutes afterward the chief officer of the submarine came on the surface about 100 yards from the quarter, at a distance of about two quarters of a mile, with five men on her deck, getting a gun forced down into the water. The first shot struck the water about thirty feet off. The second dropped just under the stern of the No. 5 hatch. The third, fourth and fifth hit the stern, sending up a volume of water forty feet high. The fifth, a last shells all fell short, and then ceased. The submarine then disappeared again.

"We were thirty-seven miles from Queenstown. I got a radio message that assistance would be within an hour, but it was hours before the armored yacht Jeanette appeared. I account for the torpedoing of the ship to their misjudging the time. They were allowing 14 knots instead of 16 knots. They were doing the same thing we were doing. They John was pulled only ten feet to the surface. "It was an ideal day for the attack, light wind, a light rain, and the weather. The periscope could have been seen a few inches above the water for a very strict lookout kept by the chief and myself and four men. We failed to see her. "Not the least warning and nearly all the passengers also asleep at the time. Most another case of brutality. We had 22 American passengers."

American Sailing Ship.

Ten minutes before the attack, a ship with two Americans painted on her side was seen. Captain Taylor became suspicious and began manning ship. Captain Conard was in command of which was the torpedo, which ploughed to the water and just missed the stern.

Stewards aroused the passengers with clothes fastened haphazardly for the upper deck.

LORENA COMMUNITY PLANS TO ESTABLISH COTTON WAREHOUSE

The Lorena banks will undertake to organize a warehouse company to build a storage place for cotton of the Lorena community, following the mass meeting of Lorena farmers and business men yesterday afternoon. W. V. Woodson, cashier of the Central Texas Exchange National bank and chairman for the county of the warehouse movement of the Texas Bankers' association, presided at the meeting, and told of the need of warehouses in the county. He was followed by John Gorham of Bosqueville who presented the warehouse movement from the farmers' standpoint. A. H. Stephens, representative of the state warehouse and marketing department, explained the new warehouse law. Senator A. R. McCollum also made a short address.

Mr. Woodson reported that the Lorena people were enthusiastic over the warehouse proposition, believing that it will be the means of saving farmers of Texas a large amount on the crop. Its effectiveness lies in the fact that it holds the cotton in uncounted towns, preventing accurate statistics as to the amount of the crop from coming to the speculators, according to leaders in the movement.

SECRETARIES TOLD OF FARM CO-OPERATION

PRESIDENT HARRY M. BAINE OF
WACO CHAMBER OF COM-
MERCE, SPEAKS AT DALLAS.

WAREHOUSING COTTON URGED

Need of Merchant Marine and Pig
Club Plan Some of Other Topics
Touched Upon.

The annual meeting of the Texas Commercial Secretaries, which closed yesterday in Dallas, was declared by those present one of the most successful ever held by the association. President Harry M. Baine of the Waco Chamber of Commerce addressed the secretaries yesterday on "Farm Co-Operation." He said, in part, as follows:

"There is an increasing effort on the part of thoughtful men to encourage an interest in agriculture. The comparative effect of that effort is now showing results and will continue to show results."

"Until a comparatively short time ago few realized that the human race depended upon the products of the farm, and that there was no substitute for farm products; when this undeniable fact was realized and appreciated, men went to farming as a business, the business farmer, the scientific farmer, is the successful farmer of today. It has been said, that science found agriculture plowing with a stick. The earth always returns what it receives, with interest, and usually in this great state, a usurious rate of interest is returned; this is particularly so this year, so far as small grain is concerned."

"The best energy, the best brain, the best intelligence is now being turned towards the fundamental occupation of farming. The soil has more brains mixed with it today than ever before. It was glad to note in the press of yesterday, where this organization endorsed the plan worked out for holding the cotton crop until there are better facilities for exporting same, and until the price offered is commensurate with the cost of production. Our good banker friends are taking initiative in this matter and it can be truly said that 'The bankers are taking an interest in, as well as interest from, the farmers.' It is estimated that the loss on cotton last year, caused by depreciation from exposure, would have built enough warehouses in Texas to have taken care of this year's crop. It is figured that when the farmer loses $5 a bale on cotton, the business community loses that much money."

"It is estimated that $1 a bale will provide warehouses for storage of cotton. The federal reserve bank has promised that paper on cotton stored in bonded warehouses and properly insured will be accepted as prime security, and have the right of way, so to speak, over all ordinary paper."

"With the proper co-operation between the business merchant and the business farmer, prosperity will soon return. Last year the farmer owed more gold than he could pay. At the end of this month, Europe will owe the United States more than a billion dollars—in the words of a prominent Waco banker, 'In another year we may have to appoint a receiver for them.'"

"It is pointed out that with the limited facilities for shipping cotton to Europe, it will be necessary to market it very slowly; if practically the entire crop should be thrown on the market within a period of ninety of a hundred days, as usual, an exceedingly low price of cotton is the sure result. Our warehouse facilities will take care of the crop for the time being."

TEACHERS COMMITTEE UNAFFECTED BY LAW

ATTORNEY GENERAL DISTINGUISHES BETWEEN IT AND EMPLOYMENT AGENCY.

Functions of Organization Are to Act as Intermediary Between Students and Schools.

Austin, Tex., July 17.—The attorney general's department, in an opinion given today to Acting President Battle of the University of Texas, held that the act of the Thirty-fourth legislature, regulating employment agencies, requiring a license and bond as prerequisites to engage in the business of a private employment agency for hire, had no application to what is known as the teachers' appointment committee of the university.

The functions of this committee are to act as an intermediary between students of the university and school authorities throughout the state simply in bringing them together. The opinion holds that the work of this committee is of a public or governmental nature and is a part of the work of the university, that it is supported by direct appropriation from the legislature and is in no sense a private employment agency such as contemplated by the act of the legislature referred to.

Regarding Sunday Soft Drinks.
Austin, Tex., July 17.—When requested for information as to the steps to be taken by his department in enforcement of the Sunday closing law applying to confectioneries, soft drink stands, etc., Comptroller Terrell, who returned today from Waco denied any intention of his department having anything to do with this matter. Mr. Terrell was quoted from Waco as having said that the Sunday closing law applying to soda fountains and soft drink stands should be enforced as stringently as the Sunday closing law relative to saloons and was alleged to have called upon the sheriffs to come to his department for assistance in enforcing this law.

DEATHS

Mrs. Daisy Bailey Dies.

The funeral of Mrs. Daisy Bailey, aged 28, was held yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the residence, 816 South Seventh street, with burial in Greenwood cemetery. Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

Mrs. Bailey died at 5:30 yesterday morning. Her husband, N. A. Bailey, and two small children survive. Mrs. Bailey was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Trout, who with three brothers and two sisters also survive.

Mrs. G. J. Daily Dies.

A telegram received by the husband here yesterday announced the death in St. Ignace, Mich., Friday night of Mrs. G. J. Daily, aged 62, who had gone to the northern state for the summer. While not in the best of health at the time she left Waco last month, it was not thought that her condition was serious, and friends here were greatly shocked at the news of her death. Mrs. Daily was proprietor of the Waco Trimmed Hat company and had lived in Waco about seven years.

Mrs. B. E. Allen Dies.

Mrs. B. E. Allen, aged 19, died at 12:50 yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin, 1213 South Ninth street. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, waiting the arrival of her husband, but it is probable that the funeral will be held this afternoon. Mrs. Allen is survived by her husband and one small child. Undertaker F. M. Compton is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Investigate White Winged Pigeons.
Austin, Tex., July 17.—A deputy game warden of the state game, fish and oyster commission has been sent to Hidalgo county to investigate reports that droves of white winged pigeons from Mexico are destroying the crops in that section. According to Commissioner Woods, who was here today, the deputy game warden has instructions to issue permits allowing the farmers to kill the pigeons if it is found that fields are being devastated.

Mrs. Will Kudelka Has Best Kept House in the City of West

West, Texas, July 17.—Mrs. Will Kudelka has the distinction of having the best kept house in West, which is coming to be recognized as a little city with a conscious pride in its appearance because of the aggressive work of the Civic League of West Housekeepers. There are snug little bungalows of smarter appearances in the city, but because she had less favorable conditions as a beginning and did more with what she had, Mrs. Kudelka, of Davis and Mesquite streets, was awarded first prize in the Civic League contest, just closing, by a committee of three out-of-town judges.

Mrs. U. E. Biggs of North Marable street received the second honors, and Mrs. W. R. Lovell, living on South Davis street, was awarded third place. Rare flowers and shrubbery, together with cash, is to be given the winners. Decisions were made on the basis of the most artistically kept yard and the most pleasing appearance of the home. The winner of first place is said to have made a marvel of beauty out of an uninviting house—and to have accomplished it largely with her own hands. Composing the judge committee were Dan O'Connell of Dallas, Miss Mary Windsor of New York and Miss Johnnie Woodruff of Tennessee.

Within a year the Civic League of West has promoted clean-up and paint-up days, built rustic bridges, improved several parks, employed a guardian for the children's playgrounds, carried on a constant publicity campaign among the housewives and given to this city a conscience on its appearance. Some time this week a comfortable and commodious rest room down town for the farm women on their visits for shopping will be completed. The room is located next door to the postoffice and is being equipped with easy chairs, library table, lavatory facilities, books and magazines, and made cozy with house plants. Such a public rest room for women is lacking in the larger cities near here.

The club is thoroughly organized and the work done with system and efficiency as the ideal. Miss Maggie O'Connell is president.

THE SOMETHING NEW
FOR THE HUACO CLUB

The cabaret dinner, the very thing which high life is enjoying elsewhere, is coming into Waco life. And it will arrive with next Tuesday evening. This means that Bruce Duncan as the house chairman, with his assistants, the Huaco club, has set cards to notify all members that with Tuesday evening the first cabaret dinner will be enjoyed. Small tables will be set in the ball room, as many as fifteen. Eleven are already booked. The dinner service will be on the second floor, adjournment from these tables being made to the inner space for a dance. The menu will be so arranged that two hours will be consumed with the dinner, including the cabaret intervals. It is now proposed that the cabaret dinner shall become a strong feature in Huaco club life during the remainder of this season.

Mr. Duncan announces that no seats can be provided unless reservation is made before noon of each Tuesday.

JUST A WORD TO THE MEN
ON OUR CITY PARKS

The recent proposal of a gift to the city in another park has brought forward the remark from some men, "We have too many parks already for city expense." The editor of a women's department is not supposed to argue such a question from the standpoint of a voter. But she is hewing strictly to the line of her sphere when she argues that question from the standpoint of humanity. It is hoped that any man who feels that Waco has too many parks will make it his evening journey to take the round of what the city already possesses in recreation ground. This man will find in every ward park hundreds of happy, frolicsome children; nay more, he will find many mothers, and some fathers, there with their little ones. Even in Sul Ross park the so-called "silk stocking" neighborhood, any night will find mothers in calico dresses, mothers who have trusted many blocks after a hot, tiresome day on the home, to get this fresh breath and to give the children, fretful during the heat, opportunity for refreshing sleep. Nurses with sick babies are in Sul Ross park in the cool of the morning; others are under the shade at any time during the day. And what transpires in Sul Ross park is in all other ward parks, greater in degree as the "silk stocking" feature diminishes. This is not mentioning the thousands who pass through Cameron park, some for the cool outing, and some to spend the early morning or the late evening hours. The man may not know it, but this writer does, that parties from Temple, Marlin, Mart, West and other adjacent towns motor up for a

Society Notes

Watch, too, for the ramshackle old fence, and say under the trees the social families of the city live behind these.

In her al fresco supper, Mrs. W. W. Woodson introduced the novelty of the picked cherry among her relishes. And they were delightful.

It really is in order to become up to the moment in phraseology and call all these fancy work clubs "Thimble parties." This is what they are called elsewhere.

Up in Buffalo they are agitating a certain day to be known as "Smile Day." We hope the women will not join in the movement, for theirs should be a smile day every day.

Dancing at the seaside resorts this season has already introduced a rival to the fox trot. This is the "Globe trot," perhaps the rose by any other name smelling just as sweet.

It is indeed encouraging to the Humane society that so many women all over the city are observing cruel practice and reporting the same to G. M. Yarbrough, the humane officer.

A new book is out with the title, "What Women Want." We thought it was long ago accorded that women do not know what they want. The men are sure they are correct in this belief.

The next time you take your drive look out for old stumps and old tree trunks, and see what has been done with them in making a beauty asset. There are any number of these in Waco yards.

Mrs. H. C. Risher will continue in Montgomery indefinitely. While her mother, Mrs. Peel, is in no immediate danger, she is feeble after her recent illness, and Mrs. Risher will remain until strength is regained.

The next time we have a sure-enough high-life wedding, let us hope that we can introduce one of the late fads of wedding music, that of the college songs from orchestra during the wedding reception.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dugger have returned from their wedding trip to California. They are at present with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gobel on West Morrow, but expect to be in their own home, Twenty-first and Gorman, with the incoming week.

Miss Lucile Hill is enjoying house party gayety among the mountains of Arkansas. A party of twelve young girls with their escorts, and two chaperones, have gone down from Kansas, guests of Miss Helen Ball, at one of the mountain club houses.

How the men do think they are gay deceivers! The time was, when they came right out and said they went to the cabaret. Wives grew restive, and the men did not quite like so much cross-questioning. So now, they go to "smoking concerts." What's in a name anyway?

Why do not the wives pay more attention to the downtown offices of their husbands? A growing plant on the reception table, a window box changed and invigorated at home, something, anything, to impart that refined air to the business home of the husband.

If we bespeak a table, decorate, provide favors and special menu, for guests we take "luncheon" at the Huaco club. If we drop in, informally with a friend or two, take a seat and the regular menu of the club, we take "lunch" at the Huaco. Be careful that you get it correct.

We do believe the expressive old Saxon word, "folks," is coming into polite usage. It once was, that "folks" were the darkies and people who lived in the backwoods. Now we see as "caption to one of the Eastern dailies, where high-life activities are reported, "Where Folks Are."

Now that the June brides are no more, we can make comment. We do not like the phrase, "The bride was led to the altar," and, what is more, we do not believe the bride likes it either, for it smacks too much of the halter and the bridle, and that objectionable word, "obey." Why cannot the bride be accompanied by her father or attended?

Once upon a time we heard a woman say she did not invite Mrs. So-and-So to her party because she did not play bridge very well. Is this the gauge for our courtesy, reciprocal obligation, and social amenity? It is to be hoped not. At the same time, the woman who expects the invitation should see that she does play a good game. There is the mutual courtesy for all who essay the called society.

A bird fountain has just been dedicated with elaborate ceremony out in California, yet we have not sufficient thought to permit a few drops from our yard hydrant for the thirsty throats. This, while we grow rapturous with our pen over the romance of the southern mocking bird. That consistency which Ralph Waldo Emerson

PRESIDENT HARRY M. BAINE OF
WACO CHAMBER OF COM-
MERCE, SPEAKS AT DALLAS.

WAREHOUSING COTTON URGED

Need of Merchant Marine and Pig
Club Plan Some of Other Topics
Touched Upon.

The annual meeting of the Texas Commercial Secretaries, which closed yesterday in Dallas, was declared by those present one of the most successful ever held by the association. President Harry M. Baine of the Waco Chamber of Commerce addressed the secretaries yesterday on "Farm Co-Operation." He said, in part, as follows:

"There is an increasing effort on the part of thoughtful men to encourage an interest in agriculture. The cumulative effect of that effort is now showing results and will continue to show results."

"Until a comparatively short time ago few realized that the human race depended upon the products of the farm, and that there was no substitute for farm products; when this undeniable fact was realized and appreciated, men went to farming as a business; the business farmer, the scientific farmer, is the successful farmer of today. It has been said, that science found agriculture plowing with a stick. The earth always returns to the soil, with interest, and usually in this great state, a usurious rate of interest is returned; this is particularly so this year, so far as small grain is concerned."

"The best energy, the best brain, the best intelligence is now being turned towards the fundamental occupation of farming. The soil has more brains mixed with it today than ever before. Yesterday, where this organization endorsed the plan worked out for holding the cotton crop until there are better facilities for exporting same, and until the price offered is commensurate with the cost of production. Our good banker friends are taking initiative in this matter and it can be truly said that 'The bankers are taking care of the farmer's interest from the loss on cotton last year, caused by depreciation from exposure, would have built enough warehouses in Texas to have taken care of this year's crop. It is figured that when the farmer loses $5 a bale on cotton, the business community loses that much money."

"It is estimated that a bale will provide warehouses for storage of cotton. The federal reserve bank has promised that paper on cotton stored in bonded warehouses and properly insured will be accepted as prime security, and have the right of way, so to speak, over all ordinary paper."

"With the proper co-operation between the business merchant and the business farmer, prosperity will soon return. Last year we owed Europe more gold than we could pay. At the end of this month, Europe will owe the United States more than a billion dollars. In the words of a prominent Waco banker, 'In another year we may have to appoint a receiver for them.'"

"It is pointed out that with the limited facilities for shipping cotton to Europe, it will be necessary to market very slowly; if practically the entire crop should be thrown on the market within a period of ninety of a hundred days, as usual, an exceedingly low price of cotton is the sure result. Our warehouse facilities will take care of the crop for the time being."

For Merchant Marine.
"The farmer can produce successfully, without co-operation, but to successfully market, he must have the co-operation of his business friends. Gentlemen, the greatest problem before the business man of the South today, is the establishment of a merchant marine. This fact is appreciated now I dare say more than it was during the last session of congress. Both commercial organizations in Waco have taken action to encourage our senators and congressmen in this matter, and have most heartily endorsed such a measure. I believe you would do well to take this matter up with your several organizations, when you return home, and see that immediate action and continued action is taken in this matter."

"The shipping facilities practically controlled by the New England and Eastern states, and all the ships being used in handling munitions of war, and manufactured articles, we can but suffer, not withstanding our efforts."

CITY NEWS BRIEFS.

Applications for renewals of retail liquor licenses have been filed in the county court by J. L. Sims, 215 South Sixth; J. A. Crout, 225 South Sixth, and H. G. Youngblood, Hallsburg.

President Harry M. Baine of the Chamber of Commerce went to Dallas yesterday morning to address the Texas Commercial Secretaries, in session there, on "Co-operating with the Farmer."

A basket picnic in the Lee Shannon pasture, seven miles out on the Marlin road, with two baseball games, will be the attraction offered by the Neal baseball club next Saturday. The Neal team will play Hallsburg and Terry.

When the Seventy-fourth district court adjourned yesterday morning, the fifth week of the Dr. G. B. Foscoe trial was concluded. It is estimated that the trial will consume the remainder of this month, at least. Dr. Foscoe is suing the company for $60,000 damages for alleged libel.

Mrs. M. Collins left yesterday for New York, via Galveston, to visit her nephew, Dr. Garcia Leano, Brazilian vice consul at New York for the last fifteen years, but who has just been notified of his appointment as consul at Glasgow, Scotland. Mrs. Collins will make an extended visit with him before he leaves New York and will not return to Waco until early fall.

Rotarians interested in automobile supplies and accessories will find much to inform them in the address which W. H. Montz will deliver before the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the State House at 12:15 o'clock Monday. Robert J. Potts will be toastmaster and some features of special entertainment are anticipated. Preliminary reports, by mail, from E. P. Drake and H. M. Cox, delegates to the International Rotary convention at San Francisco, will be read at the meeting.

John Williams and James Kelley, the two negroes captured by Deputy Sheriff John Morgan and charged with the murder of Allison Criner, another negro, near Harrison Switch, Tuesday night, were remanded to the grand jury without bail by Justice J. J. Padgett yesterday morning. Williams made a statement to Assistant County Attorney D. C. Woods in which he claimed that Kelley also shot Criner. Kelley had previously made a statement in which he said Williams fired all the shots.

LORENA COMMUNITY PLANS TO ESTABLISH COTTON WAREHOUSE

The Lorena banks will undertake to organize a warehouse company to build a storage place for cotton of the Lorena community, following the mass meeting of Lorena farmers and business men yesterday afternoon. W. W. Woodson, cashier of the Central Texas Exchange National bank and chairman for the county of the warehouse movement of the Texas Bankers' association, presided at the meeting, and told of the need of warehouses in the county. He was followed by John Gorham of Bosqueville who presented the warehouse movement from the farmers' standpoint. A. H. Stephens, representative of the state warehouse and marketing department, explained the new warehouse law. Senator A. R. McCollum also made a short address.

Mr. Woodson reported that the Lorena people were enthusiastic over the warehouse proposition, believing that it will be the means of saving farmers of Texas a large amount on the crop. Its effectiveness lies in the fact that it holds the cotton in uncounted towns, preventing accurate statistics as to the amount of the crop from coming to the speculators, according to leaders in the movement.

AGED WOMAN TAKES STAND AT MARLIN

STEPMOTHER OF KATE WILGA-
NOWSKI, 70 YEARS OLD, TESTI-FIES IN MURDER CASE.

Defense Attempts to Show That Family is Afflicted With Hereditary Insanity.

Marlin, July 17.—The feature of the Wilganowski trial today was the introduction of the aged stepmother of the 70-year-old defendant, Mary Gorelski, in an endeavor to show that the defendant's family was afflicted with hereditary insanity, giving as proofs the alleged fact that one brother of Kate Wilganowski had died after about two years and six months' confinement in the Terrell asylum, while a sister died with raving spells nine days after learning of the crime alleged to have been committed by the defendant.

The old woman told of how she had married the father of the defendant in Germany, Poland, when the defendant was 3 years old and stated that she raised her till she was 15, when she went out "among the people," but was meeting her frequently.

The defense introduced a sister of the defendant, along the same line of testimony developing, after which District Clerk Barren of Bryan was put on the stand as a man who had known her for more than fifteen years. He testified to strange actions on the part of the defendant which he said had caused him to think she was subject to spells of insanity.

E. J. Barren of Bryan said she had worked for him for twelve years as cook and that he had found her to be weak-minded, but was not ready to say he had ever considered her to be really insane.

The family physician from Bryan was then introduced and he testified regarding what was necessary to determine the sanity of a person, but did not declare he thought the witness insane. Dr. A. L. Mondrick told of her sister having been confined while raving to the jail at Bryan, during part of the nine days she lived after hearing of the alleged murder of the old man.

Negro Confesses to Robbery.
Marlin, July 17.—Jessie Robertson, a negro, arrested last April in connection with a daylight robbery of the residence of W. E. Kyser, was re-arrested today on evidence secured by Constable Wren through a juvenile court case and made a written confession in which he told where to find a gun which had been alleged to have been stolen. The constable found the gun and states he secured corroborative evidence of the confession in other ways.

large cotton crop and a European demand for same.

"I am afraid, that we have been spending too much time telling the farmer how to plow and when he should plow instead of telling him how and when to market his products, and co-operating with him to that end. It might be interesting to note in this connection that only 8 per cent of the goods exported from this country are carried by vessels flying the American flag."

"With the outbreak of European hostilities we all appreciated more than ever before that the 'one crop system' was all wrong. There was a bunch of talk about diversification—we had been listening to this for a long time. At this time, however, we realized that it was a time for action and not talk—we got busy. We immediately turned to the farmer for relief and decided that the best means of reaching and ultimately convincing the farmer, was through the boy—who is our ultimate farmer."

Pig Club Plan.
"Statistics compiled by our secretary showed that our Waco jobbers were spending over a million and a quarter dollars for hogs in their territory, while McLennan county was producing less than two hundred thousand dollars in hogs. It was at once seen that the hog crop would be the most practical way of diversification for quick results. In other words, the pig was the vehicle to carry diversification to the minds of the farmer."

"Our secretary put the plan of financing the pig movement up to the business men. Some of them agreed to finance one boy with a pig, others were so enthusiastic that they financed several boys with a pig each."

Here Mr. Baine went into details regarding Secretary Drake's movement. In conclusion, he said: "The slogan, gentlemen, 'Let Texas feed herself and keep $2,000,000 at home' means prosperity. Waco chamber of commerce has not asked the farmer to stop raising cotton or even to reduce his acreage. We have told him to raise all the cotton he can, after he has raised enough of it to feed himself. With a garden, pigs, poultry, and cows, and other stock, it will be no trouble to weather the low price of cotton, no matter how many wars."

"Someone has truthfully said 'While the war might keep us from selling cotton, the war will not keep pigs from growing, cows from giving milk or hens from laying eggs.'"

DEATHS

Mrs. Daisy Bailey Dies.
The funeral of Mrs. Daisy Bailey, aged 28, was held yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the residence, 816 South Seventh street, with burial in Greenwood cemetery. Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

Mrs. Bailey died at 5:30 yesterday morning. Her husband, N. A. Bailey, and two small children survive. Mrs. Bailey was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Taylor, who with their brothers and two sisters also survive.

Mrs. G. J. Daily Dies.

A telegram received by the husband here yesterday announced the death in St. Ignace, Mich., Friday night of Mrs. G. J. Daily, aged 62, who had come to the northern state for the summer. While not in the best of health at the time she left Waco last month, it was not thought that her condition was serious, and friends here were greatly shocked at the news of her death. Mrs. Daily was proprietor of the Waco Trimmed Hat company and had lived in Waco about seven years.

Mrs. B. E. Allen Dies.
Mrs. B. E. Allen, aged 19, died at 12:50 yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin, 1213 South Ninth street. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, waiting the arrival of her husband, but it is probable that the funeral will be held this afternoon. Mrs. Allen is survived by her husband and one small child. Undertaker F. M. Compton is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

TEACHERS COMMITTEE UNAFFECTED BY LAW

ATTORNEY GENERAL DISTIN-GUISHES BETWEEN IT AND EMPLOYMENT AGENCY.

Functions of Organization Are to Act as Intermediary Between Students and Schools.

Austin, Tex., July 17.—The attorney general's department, in an opinion given today to Acting President Battle of the University of Texas, held that the act of the Thirty-fourth legislature, regulating employment agencies, requiring a license and bond as prerequisites to engage in the business of a private employment agency for hire, had no application to what is known as the teachers' appointment committee of the university.

The functions of this committee are to act as an intermediary between students of the university and school authorities throughout the state simply in bringing them together. The opinion holds that the work of this committee is of a public or governmental nature and is a part of the work of the university, that it is supported by direct appropriation from the legislature and is in no sense a private employment agency such as contemplated by the act of the legislature referred to.

Saloon Licenses Revoked.

Austin, Tex., July 17.—Five saloon licenses in Corpus Christi were revoked by the comptroller today for violations of the 9:30 closing law. They were A. Lamminger, Adolph Dietrich, William Hoy, Anselmo Pizarra and Angel Gutierrez.

Regarding Sunday Soft Drinks.

Austin, Tex., July 17.—When requested for information as to the steps to be taken by his department in enforcement of the Sunday closing law applying to confectioneries, soft drink stands, etc., Comptroller Terrell, who returned today from Waco denied any intention of his department having anything to do with this matter. Mr. Terrell was quoted from Waco as having said that the Sunday closing law applying to soda fountains and soft drink stands should be enforced as stringently as the Sunday closing law relative to saloons and was alleged to have called upon the sheriffs to come to his department for assistance in enforcing this law.

"There has never been any such intention of my department having anything to do with this law enforcement for the reason that it is not within the power of that department to enforce such law. Furthermore," said Mr. Terrell, "I have been misquoted as asking the sheriffs to come to my department for assistance in enforcing this law. I did suggest to the sheriffs that wet territory who were having trouble in enforcing the 9:30 and other closing laws because of public sentiment, that the comptroller would be glad to do everything within his power to see that the laws were obeyed."

Friends of Comptroller Terrell and many state officials have been calling upon the comptroller to ask his leniency in closing their favorite soda water fountains. The misquotation of the comptroller is creating amusement for his friends.

Investigate White Winged Pigeons.
Austin, Tex., July 17.—A deputy game warden of the state game, fish and oyster commission has been sent to Hidalgo county to investigate reports that droves of white winged pigeons from Mexico are destroying the crops in that section. According to Commissioner Woods, who was here today, the deputy game warden has instructions to issue permits allowing the farmers to kill the pigeons if it is found that fields are being devastated.

Mrs. Will Kudelka

in the City of West

West, Texas, July 17.—Mrs. Will Kudelka has the distinction of having the best kept house in West, which is coming to be recognized as a little city with a conscious pride in its appearance because of the aggressive work of the Civic League of West House-keepers. There are snug little bungalows of smarter appearances in the city, but because she had less favorable conditions as a beginning and did more with what she had, Mrs. Kudelka, of Davis and Mesquite streets, was awarded first prize in the Civic League contest, just closing, by a committee of three out-of-town judges.

Mrs. U. E. Biggs on North Marable street received the second honors, and Mrs. W. R. Lovell, living on South Davis street, was awarded third place. Rare flowers and shrubbery, together with cash, is to be given the winners. Decisions were made on the basis of the most artistically kept yard and the most pleasing appearance of the home. The winner of first place is said to have made a marvel of beauty out of an uninviting house—and to have accomplished it largely with her own hands. Composing the judge committee were Dan O'Connell of Dallas, Miss Mary Windsor of New York and Miss Johnnie Woodruff of Tennessee.

Within a year the Civic League of West has promoted clean-up and paint-up days, built rustic bridges, improved several parks, employed a guardian for the children's playgrounds, carried on a constant publicity campaign among the housewives, and given to this city a conscience on its appearance. Some time this week a comfortable and commodious rest room down town for the farm women on their visits for shopping will be completed. The room is located next door to the postoffice and is being equipped with easy chairs, library table, lavatory facilities, books and magazines, and made cozy with house plants. Such a public rest room for women is lacking in the larger cities near here.

The club is thoroughly organized and the work done with system and efficiency as the ideal. Miss Maggie O'Connell is president.

Use of Fertilizer Shows Decrease

Washington, July 17.—Use of commercial fertilizer for cotton, as reflected in the inspection tags to June 25, compared with similar sales last year in the south, showed a decrease of 59 per cent. The department of agriculture announced today that the tonnage to June 25 this year was 2,636,000 against 4,431,000 last year. "The reduction in the absolute quantity of commercial fertilizer used," says the department, "does not measure the full extent of the loss in the product or powers from the plant from the lack of this usual supply. The quality of fertilizer sold is much inferior to last year's because of lack of available supplies of potash. This is reflected in the lower price of fertilizer this year. While the tonnage sold in South Carolina has dropped to 55 per cent of last year, the value is said to have fallen to less than 30 per cent.

"On the other hand, southern farmers appear this year to have exerted themselves to a hitherto unknown extent in the utilization of home produced composts and natural manures."

"The use of commercial fertilizers is practically unknown in the great Texas and Oklahoma cotton area and in the rich delta sections along the Mississippi river and a reduction in sales of this commodity in these districts could have no appreciable influence on the cotton crop there."

FASHION'S FEATHERS.

Large broad brimmed hats are trimmed with flat flower motifs, which are made of long ostrich fronds, usually in two contrasting tones, such as pistachio green and pale beige, gunboat gray and terra cotta, scarlet and solid blue, black and white, etc. Chrysanthemums, marguerites and gardenias are imitated in long fringed ostrich plumage and are sometimes used with flowers, sometimes independently, on dress hats of all descriptions. Some toques are covered with plumes.

Large wings in either a solid color or two contrasting tones, and also entire birds, are used on tailored hats. Quills are much used on sailor shapes and on toques to add width. It is not unusual to see as the sole trimming two immensely wide, but only medium long quills pasted to foundation sections of bias, unhemmed piece velvet in the shade of the straw and arranged over the left side of the toque to create width as well as height. Four long, very fine quills made of ostrich are arranged at random over the brim of a hat. They are held in place at either side by unique square motifs braided in check-board effect from narrow leghorn braid and equally narrow folds of satin. These squares are folded diagonally across the center, forming two triangles which clasp the brim at either side, and form an exceedingly chic as well as novel finishing touch.

To Cure a Felon.
For a felon put salt on cloth, saturate it with turpentine, then bind on.

To Get Rid of Unsightly Hairs

There is only one safe and sure way to get rid of hairs—and that is to dissolve them—then you kill the hair root entirely. To do this, get one ounce of simple sulfo solution from your druggist—apply with the finger tips—keep the hairs moist for a minute or two. You will see them gradually shrivel up and dissolve—wash the parts with warm water—and you will find that the hairs have disappeared entirely—leaving the skin soft and smooth as velvet, without a mark or scar of any kind.

EXPECT MACHINISTS TO STRIKE TOMORROW

UNLESS SOME DEVELOPMENTS
IN REMINGTON ARMS, SITUATION WILL BE WALK OUT.

Plan to Have Other Mechanics in New England to Strike in Sympathy.
Hod Carriers to Follow.

Bridgport, Conn., July 17.—Unless there are some unexpected developments in the industrial situation in Bridgport within the next thirty-six hours, machinists in the employ of the Remington Arms and Ammunition company will go on strike Monday. Announcement of the strike call would be issued for that time was made today by J. K. Keppeler, international vice president of the machinists' union, after he made an unsuccessful attempt to place before Major W. W. Penfield, works manager of the company, the demands formulated last night at a strike meeting of the machinists.

Keppeler said representatives of the union were considering ways and means of having mechanics in other manufacturing communities of New England strike in sympathy. "The machinists' union vice presidents," said the proposed strike would throw out of employment between 30,000 and 40,000 workers in Bridgport, including many of the twenty plants being operated by subcontractors for the Remington.

Vincent De Falco, international organizer of the Hod Carriers' union, said the machinists walk out the hed carriers will follow them. Such a move would, in turn, involve the bricklayers engaged on the new building. The drop-forgers engaged in the manufacture of bayonets are also considering what action they would take. Efforts were being made today to organize those workers who do not now belong to the union. Twenty-three heads of international labor organizations were in the city, according to the officials of the machinists. Exceptional measures were taken today at the Remington plant to keep strangers from the inclosure.

Mr. Keppeler said a general strike of all the machinists in Bridgport would not be called unless it was "absolutely necessary."

"I do not want the public," he continued, "to get the idea we are warring on the munitions plants by reason of peace propaganda. There is as much to that as there was to the expressed belief that German influences were behind the movement."

Two Men Hurt When Ford Turns Over

N. K. Smith, Jr., 1425 Columbus street, suffered a broken collar bone, and Harrison Waite, scratcher and minor injuries yesterday afternoon when a Ford automobile in which they were riding turned over three miles out on the Speepleville road about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The automobile belonged to Howard Lazenby, 1821 Sanger avenue. Lazenby, son of W. N. Lazenby, had driven the car to a camp, allowing Smith and Waite to take the car to reach a telephone at a house some distance away.

According to the statement of Smith, who was driving, he got out of the road in avoiding a bump, when the light machine skidded in some loose gravel, causing him to lose grip on the wheel. The car turned completely over, smashing the top, fender and headlights, badly scratching and scarring the body. Pat M. Neff, Quarles were a short distance behind the boys in another automobile when the accident occurred, and according to them the escape of the boys from serious injury was miraculous.

Mr. Compton was standing on the southwest corner of the square talking with an acquaintance when he received a gash in the thigh from a knife in the hands of a negro. Catches Man Under Dresser

Plainclothes Officer George Jackson brought Ira Brazil out from under a dresser in a house on Hopkins street yesterday afternoon after being notified by residents of the neighborhood who saw the man pull off a screen and enter through a window, only to find that he was wanted on a complaint of theft from a man who lives near Bruceville. Former City Commissioner J. A. Littlefield reported prominently in the arrest. Mr. Littlefield owns a rent house on Hopkins street and while at his place of business was told that a man had just entered the house. Mr. Littlefield looked in all the windows, but could see no one, and no place for a man to hide except behind a door or the dresser. He telephoned the police, and Officer Jackson found the man under the dresser. Brazil is charged with stealing a repeating rifle and a watch from his employer at a camp near Bruceville.

Claim Surrender Villa Troops

Laredo, Texas, July 17.—Carranza advises from Monterey today claim the surrender of 400 Villa troops under Colonel Cardenas near Paredon, which is a short distance west of Monterey. A large Carranza force was reported arriving today at Tampico from Vera Cruz to participate in the campaign from Monterey westward against Torreon. The purpose of this campaign apparently is to strike Torreon simultaneously with the expected Obregon attack from the south.

were assembled near the bridge. Life belts were adjusted and lifeboats swung out. The crew stood ready to launch the boats. From a submarine off the starboard quarter there came a shell which kicked up a miniature geyser in the Orduna's wake. The submarine had the range.

Captain Taylor turned the stern of the ship toward the assailant and ordered full speed ahead. For about half an hour the submarine pursued the liner, with the span of water between them lengthening each minute. Seven shots were fired in all. Four of them passed over the decks. The other three fell close to the ship. Then the submarine, distanced, gave up the chase.

Early risers were with the captain on the bridge when the attack began. Among them was Baron Marcia Rosenkrantz of Denmark, who married Miss Reine Loeck of Atlanta, Ga. "Ask the passengers what happened," Captain Taylor said when the Orduna docked here today. "I am attached to the royal naval reserve. Therefore cannot discuss the matter. Ask Baron Rosenkrantz; he saw the whole thing."

"But there is one question you alone can answer. Were you attacked without warning on the side that was turned up and seemed to be beating up the wind?"

"Captain Taylor apparently became suspicious of the boat. We noticed that the course of the ship immediately was changed so that the little vessel ahead would be given a wide berth. I could see that we were passing far astern of her if we kept to the new course."

"Some of those aboard believed that the sailing ship was hiding a submarine behind her."

Thomas H. Graham of Liverpool, one of the passengers on deck at the time the ship was attacked, expressed his conviction that such was the case.

"We passed the sailing ship at a considerable distance. Having done this, most of us forgot her," Baron Rosenkrantz continued. "A few minutes after we had left her behind, I could see the streak coming towards us through the water."

"It was a torpedo. We could see it coming towards us at high speed. When it appeared to be a half mile or so off, the Orduna seemed to jump ahead and a second afterward to swerve to one side. It looked then as if the torpedo would strike us astern."

"But didn't it pass not more than ten yards behind the rudder, churning up a white wake of foam as it passed by?"

Made Out Name "Normandie".
The passengers, including Baron Rosenkrantz, turned their glasses then on the sailing ship and tried to make out her name. Mr. Graham was reasonably sure it was "Normandie" or a name similar to that.

Maritime records contain no Normandie in the list of sailing vessels. A near approach to this name, however, is the American bark, Normandy. In this connection it was recalled here that the Normandy was captured by the British on July 12, three days after the Orduna was attacked at the end of a voyage from Gulfport, Miss. Upon her arrival at Liverpool, members of the crew said that the Normandy was stopped by a German submarine 60 miles southwest of Tuscan Rock boat destroyers.

Trains Under U. S. Protection.

Nogales, Ariz., July 17.—Gov. Calles in the decree warned travelers against using the railroad between Nogales and Guaymas because trains would be attacked.

"I might just as well declare war on the United States for the same reason," he said.

NEGRO PURSE SNATCHER BELIEVED CAPTURED

DETECTIVE CRAVEN CAPTURES
YOUTH WHO IS IDENTIFIED
BY RECENT VICTIM.

Police Satisfied That Prisoner is Boy
Who Has Robbed Several Women Lately.

Clayton Owens, negro boy, was locked up last night by city police on suspicion of having snatched a purse from Mrs. W. B. Capehart, 1421 Washington street. Officers believe that he is the same negro boy who has snatched more than ten purses from white women, in some cases roughly handling them, in one case, particularly that of an elderly woman on North Ninth street several months ago, so severely as to necessitate the attendance of a physician. The capture last night was a combination of good fortune and watchfulness that promises to end one of the most troublesome cases that have claimed the attention of the police for years.

Motorcycle Officer Tilley responded as did several others, when it was reported to the city hall that a negro boy had snatched a purse from a woman at Thirteenth and Washington streets immediately under an arc light. He chased the boy through alleys and streets of the neighborhood for several minutes twice catching sight of him, only to lose him when his machine was stopped by a street car taking on passengers.

Motorcycle Officers Alva Tilley was reporting to Chief McNamara the negro boy had dodged up alleys in the neighborhood which has been scene of most of the exploits, with his usual good luck in escaping.

Detectives Craven and Rutland, with Chief McNamara were standing in the office when a negro boy passed on the sidewalk just outside the window. One of the officers made the remark, "There goes a negro boy wearing a cap now."

Detective Craven slipped out the door and found the negro standing against the iron fence that surrounds the windows of the calaboose, whistling to someone inside.

When the officer placed his hand on the negro's shoulder he discovered that he was wet with perspiration. This aroused suspicion, knowing that Officer Tilley had chased the negro who snatched the purse for several blocks. A gold memorandum case, stamps were found in the boy's pockets when he was searched. Detective Craven and Officers Tilley and Rutland carried the negro to the house at 1421 Washington street, where he was positively identified by Mrs. Capehart and Miss Jewell Vandiver, who was with her at the time the purse was snatched.

After a little ingenious third degree the negro boy guided the officers to the place where he had thrown the purse, near an alley between Twelfth and Eleventh on Jefferson street. Other missing articles and papers were found scattered on the grass nearby. The purse and all its contents were restored to Mrs. Capehart within an hour after it had been taken. Mrs. Capehart was profuse in her praise of the quick work of the officers. The purse itself was valued at about $5 and contained about two dollars in money, railroad tickets, the two gold trinkets and other articles of value.

Officers believe the negro captured is the same who snatched a purse from another woman on North Tenth street about twenty minutes after the first. The latter woman went on her way believing the police could learn her name. The police are anxious to learn the name of this woman, as the negro arrested last night had a little leather purse such as is carried in larger purses by women, and in which was some money.

The negro boy arrested last night at first denied all knowledge of the purse-snatching. He claimed the gold trinkets belonged to a relative, and that he had worked for the money. After being identified by Mrs. Capehart, who also identified the property, he admitted being in the neighborhood, but claimed that another negro boy had snatched the purse and given him the money. He denied knowledge of any of the previous crimes that have almost terrified women pedestrians at night in one of the most respectable neighborhoods in the city.

All of the several cases of purse-snatching reported from this section of the city during the past several months have been remarkably similar, convincing officers that the work has been that of one person. In each case the negro dodged up an alley after dashing out and snatching the purse, and in most cases the work was done under a light. Most of the thefts have been reported on Saturday nights. Police officers have spent hours lying in vacant lots and in the mouths of alleys in the neighborhood in a six-months' effort to catch the thief at his work. Descriptions of the purse-snatcher in all cases has been the same—a negro boy about 17, short trousers and wearing a cap. The police are busy in an effort to locate any possible accomplices of the negro who is now in jail.

Chief McNamara said last night the capture pleased him more than anything that had happened around the city for a long time. He said the officers quickly and thoroughly work.

as Calles does on the Southern Pacific railroad," declared Maytorena.

Queretaro Not Taken.

Houston, Texas, July 17.—According to a cablegram received at Galveston tonight from First Chief Venustiano Carranza of the constitutionalist army the claims set up by Villa earlier in the week that his army had captured Queretaro are absolutely false. The Queretaro states that there was a minor engagement near Queretaro after a small force of Villistas had cut telegraphic connections between the city and the town of Toluca. The Villistas followed and are being pursued. Carranza states in the cablegram, and further states that the constitutional forces under Obregon are continuing their advance to the north.

Auto Fails to Push Engine From Track and is Battered Up

One of the auto delivery wagons of the Ragsdale-Price company attempted to push a Cotton Belt engine off the track at Fifth and Mary about 9 o'clock last night, with somewhat disastrous effect on the automobile, but no serious damage to the locomotive. The driver of the automobile stopped his car as the engine rolled over the street and tried to get it back on the track, but did not leave the gear of the machine in neutral, as he thought. As he released the feed lever the machine started suddenly, running head on into the locomotive. The driver was not hurt.

Harry K. Thaw Takes Two Dips in Ocean

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—Harry K. Thaw who arrived here late last night after having been set free under bail by the New York supreme court, took two dips in the ocean today and shook hands with hundreds of persons. Early in the day he shunned the crowd that lingered about the corridors of the Beach Front hotel where he is staying, but later he disregarded the gaze of the curious and did as he pleased. He told newspapermen who are constantly with him that he would go to Philadelphia late Sunday afternoon, remain there overnight, and leave for his home in Pittsburgh sometime Monday. Thaw spent the forenoon in his room and about noon he tried to take a stroll along the board walk. A crowd followed him and he sought relief in a public bath house, where he hired a bathing suit and took a plunge in the ocean under the eyes of his private detectives. Hundreds of persons stood on the wooden way or in the sand to watch him disport himself in the water.

During the afternoon the slayer of Stanford White went on a shopping tour and at 5 o'clock he took his second bath. Whenever he went he was followed by crowds. He was constantly stopped by men and women who wanted to shake his hand. One woman leaned out of a rolling chair, grasped his hand and said, "My dear boy, I want to tell you how glad I am that you are free. I am glad for your mother's sake."

Roads Are Seeking to Collect $10,000,000 From the Government

Washington, July 17.—Petitions filed in the court of claims today by seven New England railroads seeking to collect $10,000,000 from the government as a loss through carrying mails for the last six years under the present system of weighing are regarded by the postoffice department as bringing the whole lot standing controversy of railway mail pay to the point of legal determination. Millions of dollars and all the government's mail carrying contracts may be affected.

The railroads contend the present system of weighing mails every four years is illegal. They attack the rate of pay per mile and increasing demands of the postoffice department for more facilities without adequate compensation. They contend the rate of pay is unreasonable and confiscatory and therefore unconstitutional, and that they are obliged to make up deficiencies in revenue by freight, passenger and express receipts.

All the contentions set out in the railroads' petition have previously been brought out in congressional hearings and in a public controversy between a committee of railroad managers and Postmaster General Burleson.

The petition also alleges Postmaster General Burleson "deliberately and purposely" resorted to the four-year system of weighing to compel the railroads to carry the increasing amounts of mail which accrue during the four year period without additional pay and that their requests for readjustment have been "ignored and refused."

One of the main contentions is that the extension of the weight limits of the parcel post has "added an enormous amount of mail" at "an enormous expense" and was without authority of law.

HARRY THAW'S FREEDOM.

While the interest in the two cases was based upon entirely different principles, we are persuaded that there is almost as general satisfaction over the findings of the jury and the court which make Harry Thaw a free man again—taking it for granted that the court of appeals does not reverse the decision of Judge Hendricks—as in the action of Governor Slaton of Georgia in commuting the sentence of Leo M. Frank to life imprisonment.

It is the consensus of opinion of a vast majority of Americans that Thaw is now sane. Indeed, many doubt if he was insane at the time he entered that plea in order to save his life in his trial for the killing of Stanford White. But granting that he was insane at the time of the killing, and irresponsible for his act, he certainly ought not to be made to suffer the confinement of a lunatic if at a later time he recovered his senses and we regret to see the officers of New York state so persistent in their efforts to detain a man whom they charge is a lunatic but who is a citizen of another state. Confinement of a sane man with lunatics is worse punishment than confinement in a penitentiary with criminals and Thaw has suffered considerably for his misdeeds already.

We believe Thaw was sane at the time he killed Stanford White. We believe he has been as sane all his life as he is today. But the jury that tried him on a charge of murder declared him insane and under the law he is entitled to his freedom when he can establish the fact that he is no longer insane.

It looks like a travesty upon justice, however, when men and women plead insanity in order to save their lives when it is known that what they term fits of insanity are nothing more than fits of bad temper into which they permit themselves to be worked up in order to commit the deeds which they desire to carry out. And it is a disgrace that professional alienists will testify either for or against a defendant or the state, just as they are paid to do. In the recent trial of Thaw it was brought out that one of the alienists who testified against him had been assisting in the preparation of the case against him. He was prejudiced against Thaw because of being retained by the state and as Justice Hendricks very wisely declared, his opinion in the case could not be considered as that of an expert at all.

The whole conduct of the Thaw case has been a disgrace to New York and the inroads made upon the Thaw fortune by unscrupulous lawyers has been very distasteful to persons who like to see principles of right upheld no less in the interest of the rich than of the poor. We are glad Thaw is free, but we hope he will accept the admonition of the jurors who tried his case and behave himself and afford no new occasion for New York or any other state prosecuting or persecuting him.

When enjoying your ice cream or other cold delectables today, stop and ask yourself if an ice man had to work all day through the hot sun to provide you with that luxury. If so, won't you, as a consideration to him, buy your ice on Saturday next week and permit him to take Sunday off, too?

The new business girl, we are informed, is refusing to accept proposals of marriage on Sunday on the ground that contracts entered into on the Sabbath are not binding.

ABSENTEE VOTING AGAIN.

Readers of the Morning News will recall that this paper has all along expressed its approval of that portion of the proposed amendment to the state constitution to be voted upon next Saturday, known as house joint resolution No. 1, which seeks to confine the privileges of the ballot to bona fide citizens of the United States, but we have heretofore expressed doubt as to the advisability of that other provision which seeks to confer upon persons away from home the privilege of voting for state and district officers and state measures wherever they may be, under certain regulations. Our fear was that fraud might be perpetrated under this provision on such a scale as to more than offset the good that would be accomplished in permitting many good men who are unable to vote at home to cast their ballots wherever they might be.

After a study of the operation of similar provisions in five or six other states, however, we have come to the conclusion that whatever fraud might be perpetrated under this provision would be more than counterbalanced by the additional benefit of permitting many intelligent and well-meaning citizens to vote and we shall support the whole amendment. Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, the two Dakotas and possibly other states permit absentee voting under certain restrictions and such reports as we have been able to procure from those states are to the effect that the results have been wholesome. Those states haven't a large Mexican vote to deal with—and we do not mean to class all Mexicans with the venal element, for there are many good citizens among the representatives of that nationality in this state—but in view of the disposition of both state and federal grand juries to investigate election frauds in this and other states we are persuaded that the purity of the ballot will be more closely safeguarded in Texas in the future than it has in the past.

We have made the argument heretofore that the majority of the traveling men of the state could get home once every two years on Saturday—and this is the day on which our biennial primaries, the elections in which the masses of the people are most interested, are always held—and that argument will hold yet, and we suggested that it were better a few men be disfranchised than that the opportunity for general corruption at the hands of the venal element be opened. But after fuller consideration of the number of railroad and other men who are detained away from home by their labors, and of the large number of school teachers and pupils who are away from home at summer schools and the like and other good people away on their vacations, we have come to the conclusion that the number of additional legitimate votes that would be cast in the election would more than offset the number of illegal votes cast as a result of absentee voting, and are persuaded that the amendment as a whole ought to be adopted. We shall support it to that end.

That portion of the amendment which seeks to confine the privileges of the ballot to such persons as can qualify for citizenship of the United States is unassailable, in our opinion, and the good that would result from its adoption would offset in a measure any defects in the provision for absentee voting, should there be any defects there, and after a fuller study of the question we are persuaded those defects are not as serious as we at first contemplated. At least they have not proven so in other states, and if the irresponsible foreign element that is dominated by the liquor traffic in certain sections of this state could be disfranchised by the first part of the amendment, then little would be left to fear from absentee voting, for past experience has demonstrated that no interest except that dominated by liquor has attempted to pay poll taxes and cast illegal votes on a statewide scale.

MR. EDISON'S EXAMPLE.

While there are some who will fear that the enlistment of talented American citizens in an effort to increase the efficiency of the United States navy may be the means of encouraging that preparedness for war that really invites war, we are not of that number, and are glad that Secretary Daniels has realized the need of taking this step, following several incidents that have served to demonstrate that our naval defense is not as efficient as it ought to be.

Germany's great military success is due no less to the fact that the scientific talent of that country has contributed its labors to the military end of the government no less than to the fact that superior training has been given the men who make up the German army and navy. We are sure that no such emphasis as is laid upon military preparation in Germany is contemplated by any member of the present American administration, and there is no need to fear that increasing the efficiency of our navy through the counsel of the special board of inventors and scientists which Mr. Edison has agreed to head will bring about any great temptation on the part of America to employ that navy without ample justification.

It is generally understood that Mr. Edison and those who may be associated with him will give first consideration to increasing the efficiency of the American submarine, which, it must be confessed, is greatly in need of improvement. For if we are going to have submarines at all—and they have demonstrated their superiority as a means of offensive and defensive warfare—we should have the best submarines available and a board of competent American inventors and scientists ought to be able to devise the best ones that the world affords. We do not need a large standing army for offensive warfare, but we do need a well-equipped navy and adequate coast defense so as to protect this country at all times against foreign invasion, for incidents of the European war indicate that a nation cannot always tell in advance when it may be attacked from without.

But there is another favorable factor in Mr. Edison's decision to accept service on the naval board of counsel and that is the example he sets to other men of large talent in the United States to place their services at the disposal of their country. Business men, economists, social workers, educators, farmers, physicians, editors, engineers—men of every profession and trade—have talent which could be used to the advantage of the country in the shaping of laws, mapping out governmental programs along various lines, and contributing to governmental efficiency everywhere. It may not fall to their lot to be called into active service by the secretary of a department at Washington, but they should be available not only to the national government but to that of the state, county, city, precinct, school district or wherever those services may be needed.

HOW THE INCOME TAX WORKS OUT.

With a total of $79,928,675 received from the income tax during the fiscal year closing June 30, the federal treasury finds that it has $9,000,000 more to the good than it had a year ago from the same source, according to the Christian Science Monitor. That this gain represents accurately the relative increase of wealth taxable under the terms of the law during the year is doubtful; but when further analyzed, especially on the side of payments by individuals as distinct from corporations, the total does indicate decided growth in willingness to declare assets and assume liabilities of a dutiful and civic kind. For this fact there is reason to be thankful, since one of the gravest problems of state under all its forms is to inspire and to sustain the practical form of patriotism known as paying taxes.

If New York City for the cities, and New York, Illinois and Pennsylvania for the states, are again disclosed as centers of residence with the largest number of taxpayers who also pay a major portion of the tax, this fact need occasion no surprise or criticism. The concentration of power and wealth in manufacture, trade and banking which has gone on within these states is obvious; and given anything like adequate candor and public spirit on the part of citizens subject to taxation, it was certain that the returns would be as they have been. The fact is plain that the incidence of this form of taxation is falling where it belongs and will shift as fast as altering sectional and local conditions modify the working of the law. There is no attack upon the equities of citizenship because the tax falls as it does, once assume the right of the theory underlying it. Those who have the wealth are expected to pay on the basis of their own appraisal, checked to be sure by the methods of inequity which the nation may use if necessary.

It is too soon yet to say dogmatically whether this direct form of taxation has done what it is claimed such an impost always tends to do, namely, increase intelligent interest by taxpayers in policies which, when made statutory in form, either increase or decrease amounts citizens must pay for government. If the method does this, the change of attitude will affect many persons for the better, since too often by indirect forms of taxation citizens least able to provide public revenue pay relatively larger sums than do other citizens who have the income-producing property or profession. If payment of an income tax will induce in wealthy and well-to-do persons stricter care for, and oversight of, legislation which appropriates funds from the national treasury, it will fill a dual role and be both prudential and educational.

If you are so fortunate as to be the owner of a Ford automobile purchased since Aug. 1, 1914, you are entitled to a portion of that $15,000,000 rebate, according to the press dispatches. Inasmuch as 300,000 cars have been sold since that time the rebate per car will be only between $40 and $60. But then that will pay for a considerable quantity of gasoline or other accessories.

Mr. Bryan announces that he will return to the platform. We did not recall that he had left it.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Plea for Levee Amendment.

Austin, Texas, July 17.

To The Waco Morning News:

The last section of senate joint resolution No. 18, commonly known as the "Levee Amendment," would authorize by legislative authority any defined districts now, and hereafter to be described and defined within the state of Texas, which may be formed for the purpose of reclaiming and improving overflowed and swamp lands in this state, and maintain the improvements thereon, may upon a vote of two-thirds majority of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon, who are qualified electors of such district or territory, in addition to other debts, issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit in any amount not to exceed 50 per cent of the assessed value of the real property in such district or territory, providing further that where a county, district, or other political sub-division has issued bonds for improvements for the purpose named in this section, the legislature may authorize the levy and collection of taxes for the maintenance of such improvements, not to exceed 50 cents on the one hundred dollars valuation in any year.

The above is a substantial wording of the amendment submitted, and the casual reading of the same should be sufficient to inform the voters of its purpose, extent and effect on the people generally. Under the present constitution, levee and drainage districts are limited to a bond issue of 25 per cent of the assessed values of the land in the district. This bond issue is wholly inadequate, because of the comparatively low assessments on lands susceptible to overflow, and this amendment has been drafted and submitted by the owners of these lands in order that they may be able to reclaim their respective lands and thereby develop the real and productive values thereon.

It is clear from the reading of this amendment that it cannot effect in any way those who do not own property in the lands and it will not affect the owners of these lands until the vote of two-thirds majority of the resident property taxpayers shall have signified their willingness at the polls to vote bonds and authorize the levy of a tax to redeem them. If there is any other construction which could be placed upon this proposed amendment, the writer is not advised of the same. Notwithstanding this fact, and the fact that the amendment would effect all the people for the benefit of the few who own overflowed and swamp lands of Texas.

The members of the Texas Levee and Drainage association are owners of a large majority of the acreage of these undeveloped lands, and being desirous of reclaiming them, and being willing to bond their lands and to pay the taxes themselves for the redemption of the bonds, and knowing that it cannot effect any one outside of the well defined districts, which may hereafter be located, they most respectfully and sincerely urge the voters to adopt this resolution on July 24th.

If there should be objections to the other amendments submitted along with this amendment, we hope that the voters will not forget the levee amendment, but that each voter will manifest sufficient interest in this matter to investigate and determine the effect of the same, and help us to reclaim the 6,000,000 acres of undeveloped lands in this state, and thereby make Texas rich.

CHAS. W. ELLIOTT,
President, Texas Levee and Drainage Association.

Texas Faces the Future.

To The Waco Morning News:
It fills me with new hope for Texas to pick up a morning daily, as I did The News of July 10, and find in the first editorial column a strong and clear expression as to the essential justice of equal citizenship for men and women. The success of the levee amendment, showing that the saloon is opposed to the business interests of the country. No people are prouder of their state than Texans, but our chief concern should not be merely the size and number of our natural resources, but rather the question what we are going to do with these, how we are going to use them. In some respects Texas has been progressing, as when she stood to the front in the leadership for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, at a time when his nomination was far from being a foregone conclusion and when the opposition to him and to progressive democracy was determined and strong. The success of the levee cause was largely due to the initiative of Texas and to that distinguished citizen of Waco, Robert Lee Henry, whose services at Baltimore were conspicuous.

But unhappily in some respects Texas has been content to remain as reactionary as conservative eastern states, and really more so. Until this year we were one of the few remaining states with no compulsory school attendance law. Now, however, we have turned our faces toward the future, and the next steps are woman suffrage and prohibition. We do not want to be the last to fall into line, and we are glad that the women in some instances Texas reactionary statesmen, we must now turn for new leadership to thorough-going progressives, such as your own Waco publicist, Samuel Palmer Brooks.

JOHN C. GRANTERY.

Georgetown, Texas, July 17, 1915.

American Citizenship and Suffrage.

Lockhart, Texas, July 17.

To The Waco Morning News:

A great deal is being said and written about house joint resolution No. 1 to be voted on July 24. Like all other questions there is a difference of opinion and some do not know how to vote. I notice that Mr. A. J. Barton is opposed to the amendment and that surprises me. In my political career I've often been in doubt as to what to measure to vote for, but in this case it seems very clear to me that every man who stands for American citizenship, American ideals, American customs, honest elections, sobriety, a high standard of morality and justice, should vote for this amendment. Another reason why every American citizen who stands for honest elections should vote for this amendment, is that the brewery and liquor interests, and in my opinion 95 per cent of the foreigners, will vote against the amendment. Watch my prediction, examine the returns in San Antonio and other places where the foreign vote is large.

From Brownsville to El Paso, in those counties along the Rio Grande, certain people for certain men and interests have been in the habit of sending men over the country securing the names of every Mexican and mailing poll tax receipts to them and then herding them like so many sheep and voting them, and in some instances I have been told that they recorded their names on tally sheets without the formality of an election in some precincts. Ninety-five per cent of these people are not American citizens, and had no right to vote for any person, or any measure. All these people, if voted July 24, will vote against this amendment. Then why should every honest American citizen not know how to vote? Some writers argue that after a foreigner has been here twelve months and declared his intention to become a citizen, he should be allowed to vote.

I say it is not right, not reasonable, not just to American citizens. A young man born of American parents 15 years old is certainly more intelligent and is much better posted and knows more about our customs and needs, and more about our public men and policies than the average foreigner who has been here only twelve months. If the young man of eighteen tries to vote he is told he is too young. You must be in America 21 years before you can vote, he hears, and at 21 he walks to the polls for many months. He is then an American citizen. Up steps a foreigner who has been here twelve months and not a citizen and kills the young man's first vote when he has been here 21 years. Is that justice? I say no. George W. Brackenridge of San Antonio is one of the most philanthropic, most charitable, most progressive, most patriotic, most amiable characters in Texas, yet as elections are conducted now a foreigner of twelve months residence not yet a citizen, behind a saloon bar, can vote ten men to Brackenridge's one, and against Brackenridge's ideas.

Some Questions About Submarines.

Dallas, Texas.

To The Waco Morning News:

The United States demands of Germany to respect the lives of innocent merchantmen. Surely a human expectation. But where are the "innocent" merchantmen of the allies? Merchant vessels of the allies have instructions to ram and sink Germany's submarines. Even prizes have been offered to captains of merchantmen for such acts.

What are innocent merchantmen? How is the submarine commander to distinguish the innocent merchantman from those that are ever ready to fight and destroy his craft?

Does the merchantman, with instructions to attack deserve to be treated differently from a man of war?

International law does not answer these questions. A modern warfare, but why not try to arrive at satisfactory answers which take full cognizance of existing facts developed by this war, before we entangle ourselves further in international disputes?

Old Maids and Bachelor Girls.

Bastrop, Texas.

In the Metropolitan Magazine for July Dr. Anna Howard Shaw completes "The Story of the Pioneer," being reminiscences of a remarkable woman with these words: "Neither the world nor my cause is indebted to me—but from the depths of a full and very grateful heart I acknowledge my eternal indebtedness to them both."

Not long ago I heard a popular evangelist say: "All old maids are ugly but a cross-eyed old maid is simply awful." Apart from the injustice and cruelty of the expression we can see how there may be a most demoralizing influence set to work in the minds of impressionable boys and girls by such statements from men whom they respect and love. A boy thereby may become critical of the teacher whose influence has stimulated his ambition and reinforced the teachings of his mother. A silly girl might become convinced that nothing mattered much except to secure a husband; at any cost to avoid being an old maid.

Dr. Shaw is an unmarried woman, an old maid. She is not cross-eyed, and she is not ugly. On the contrary, she is a most handsome and attractive woman, as are thousands of the unmarried women of the world who are doing some of the best work for the upbuilding of humanity. All of these women might have married. They might possibly have married men worthy of them and borne children that would have grown up to usefulness and honor; but on the other hand, they would have had the same married men inferior to them, bearing a family of mediocre children and dying, perhaps, before the characters of these were formed. In the one case, their work would have been done; or if done by their children done a generation later. In the other case, the woman has been false to the heavenly vision and leaves the taint of her weakness on her children as well as on herself.

It will never be known what the world owes to the courageous women who have stood firmly by their convictions even at the cost of being ridiculed by the coarse and thoughtless. There are many unmarried women, old maids or bachelor girls, who are the mainstay of their families, supporting a father in his old age, giving of their youth and happiness to a weary, tolling mother, helping to educate the younger brothers and sisters, models of propriety and industry.

Blindfolded Tire Buyers

This is to point out the way to the light.

Tires which seem identical are often most unlike. There are dozens of standards. The fierce competition compels many a compromise, affecting what you seek.

Features Which Cost Millions

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five great features found in no other tire. They have others which are rare—hidden features, never missed until the tire meets trouble.

These Goodyear extras, on this year's output, will cost us $1,635,000. Our 1915 improvements alone will cost us $500,000 yearly. And nearly all for things you never see—things you never miss until the tire falls down.

Yet our late price reduction saves our users about five million dollars this year. And that was our third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

How to Judge

Judge tires by the maker. Judge them by known features. Each exclusive Goodyear feature combats a major trouble.

Judge, above all, by records. Not by mere good luck or mishap, but by Tiredom's general verdict. In its 16th year the Goodyear tire far outsells any other. It has outlasted for years.

By any measure you can use, Goodyear tires are best. Adopt them. Any dealer will supply you.

try. These women can treat with contempt the shafts of coarse wit aimed at their most delicate feelings. Nevertheless such things do harm and are cruel and cowardly. They tend to discourage the girl who might fit herself for a wide field of usefulness, for marriage is only good if a woman prefers that to everything else that the world can offer, and if she is so fortunate as to meet the man who satisfies her as a lifelong companion.

Divorces, weak-minded, incorrigible children, families growing up in neglect, without training or proper ideals, are the fruits of marriages where the parties have fitted themselves for nothing under the sun, but have blindly followed their animal instincts—but at any rate the women were never ridiculed as old maids. A good many years ago Sam Jones said, in substance, "Some of you married women turn up your noses at old maids, but I would rather be forty old maids than to be in some of your places." In which sentiment we can most heartily concur.

CROWNED HEADS HAD FADS

Mary, queen of Scots, had her coat of arms engraved on a brilliant, and it is recorded also that the portrait of Don Carlos, the unfortunate son of Philip II, of Spain, as well as one of the popes, besides other subjects, were engraved on diamonds.

It was not until the middle of the fifteenth century that Van Bergen, a Dutchman, adopted a mode of grinding, shaping and then polishing them, like other jewels, by means of diamond pounded into powder and mixed with oil on a metal wheel called a lap, and it was two centuries later, in the time of Cardinal Mazarin, that the best true brilliant shape was discovered and adopted.

Local Owners of Fords Get $17,500 Slice Out of Melon

About $17,500 of that $15,000,000 melon that Henry Ford, the millionaire automobile manufacturer, is cutting for the benefit of owners of his car throughout the country will come to McLennan county, according to the estimate of J. Mitchell Nash, local agent for the company, who says that approximately 350 Ford cars have been sold in McLennan county since Aug. 1, 1914, the time limit that entitles the holder of a Ford car to participation in the big profit-sharing fund.

The Ford factory announced last summer that if 300,000 cars were sold between Aug. 1, 1914, and Aug. 1, 1915, $15,000,000 would be distributed among the owners of those new cars. Friday of last week witnessed the reaching of the 300,000 mark in the sale of Ford cars and the announcement was made that night that the sum of $15,000,000 would be distributed, the pro rata on each car averaging $50. The smaller cars will bring a dividend of only $40, while the larger ones will fetch $60. The average will be $50. This average multiplied by the 350 cars that have been sold in this county during the last year will bring the total profits to be shared by Ford owners in the county to $17,500, which will be sufficient to furnish each car owner with a nice little sum of spending money.

H. T. Cruger, local dealer in Fords, telephoned to both the Dallas and Houston branches to see if they had heard anything official in regard to the reported distribution of $15,000,000. Nothing had been heard at either place, but from both houses Mr. Cruger was assured that the distribution was practically assured, as last week's records showed that almost 300,000 cars had been sold, with almost three weeks yet to go.

The records in the office of County Clerk John W. Baker show that about half the autos sold here since Aug. 1, 1914, have been Fords.

Snaman Goes East Tomorrow to Buy Fall Stock of Goods

Joseph Snaman of the firm of Snaman & Co., leaves tomorrow for New York where he will spend about six weeks, buying the fall stock for the women's store of Snaman & Co. here. Mr. Snaman will be accompanied by Mrs. Snaman. The trip will be made by rail to New Orleans, thence to New York by boat.

Shipments of the new fall styles will begin to arrive in Waco within the next two weeks, said Mr. Snaman yesterday, and an advance showing will be made in the Snaman store here. Mr. Snaman said that he has planned to buy for the most prosperous fall season of his store, basing his belief on the sustained business of his firm all the summer and his faith in Waco. Women of Waco may be assured by Mr. Snaman's experience and judgment that the newest and best of the fall styles will be shown in the Snaman store here as a result of his buying trip which starts tomorrow.

CAPTIVE BALLOON FOR COTTON PALACE

DIRECTORS WILL MEET MONDAY NIGHT AND DISCUSS PLANS FOR 1915 EXPOSITION.

FLOOR COMMITTEE NAMED

Three Counties Already Planning for Agricultural Displays—Woodman Day, Thursday, Nov. 11.

Everything is shaping up fine for the 1915 Cotton Palace, and the directors will meet at 8 o'clock Monday night in the chamber of commerce rooms to receive committee reports and to plan various ways to make the exposition the greatest in its history.

President Asher Sanger announces his floor committee, to have charge of the entertainments in the coliseum, as follows: T. F. Bush (of Bush & Witherspoon) chairman; Langdon E. Luedde, W. D. Lacy Jr., Willard Wigley and Joe Haber.

A captive balloon to carry passengers will be one of the features of the coming exposition, according to the announcement of Secretary Seth N. Mayfield. It is also planned to have some excellent music this year, but just what band will be brought here will probably not be decided until next month.

Denton, Jefferson and Taylor counties have already evinced a determination to have elaborate displays of agricultural products at the Cotton Palace this fall, and Secretary Mayfield, who was in Dallas last week, conferring with the commercial secretaries of the state expects many other counties to fall in line within the next thirty days. The Cotton Palace directors are endeavoring to make the county exhibit section one of the leading agricultural features of this year, and from present indications, their efforts will prove successful.

The publicity department, through W. V. Crawford, its director, announces that there will be plenty of Cotton Palace advertising matter ready for the first Y. M. B. L. trade trip, which will be taken to Tyler Thursday.

Thursday, Nov. 11, will be Woodman day at the Cotton Palace this year, official selection of the day having been made by Brigadier General R. H. McDill of Dallas, commanding the Texas division Uniform Rank W. O. W. Notice of the selection of the day was received yesterday by J. J. Flood of this city, head watchman of jurisdiction C. W. O. W., which includes Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. The Woodmen are the first to select a day in the 1915 exposition. Woodman day last year, the first, was one of the best attended of all the Cotton Palace special days.

JUNE LIBRARY REPORT.

To the Board of Directors, Waco Public Library: Ladies and Gentlemen—I have the honor to submit the report of the Waco public library for the month of June, 1915:

	Adult.	Juvenile.	Total.
1915.....	4,700	3,926	8,626
1914.....	3,882	2,937	6,819
Registrations—
1915.....	70	171	241
1914.....	145	138	283
	75	33	108

The library was open to the public thirty days and for the circulation of books twenty-six days. During the month 8,626 books were circulated on those days, 8,636 books, an increase of 1,817 over June, 1914. As in May, the number of children's books borrowed was much greater than the number during the corresponding month last year, there being an increase of 999. The collections of books placed in the various school buildings for the winter were brought in the first of June. On counting, it was found that the number of books in the school, where the books have been on deposit since November.

A count was kept during the month of the number of children who made application for membership cards. Belle Hill school headed the list with 26 children. South Eighth Street and South Waco each sent 20 children, Sanger Avenue 19, Columbus Street 12, East Waco 11, and the other schools less than 10 each. Of the 241 registrations for the month, 171 were children's and 70 were adult.

The 151 visitors to the reading rooms in June were distributed as follows: 88 men, 13 women and 50 children.

One hundred and twenty volumes were added to the shelves during the month. The greater part of these were publishers' remainders published at greatly reduced prices to supply summer reading for both the adult and juvenile departments. The donors for the month are the following: Mrs. William Preston Johnston, J. M. Henshaw, E. C. Blomeyer, R. L. Henry, Baylor university and Sir Gilbert Parker.

Such of the year's cumulation of periodicals as we are accustomed to bind were sent to the bindery the last of the month. With the 75 periodicals sent, were sent 323 books, making a total of 398 volumes. In addition to the work entailed in preparing these books and magazines for the bindery, 1,178 volumes were mended during the month.

Very respectfully submitted,
PAULINE McCauley,
Librarian.

Sell Corn & Peasall. Peasall, July 17.—Farmers are beginning to hunt market for their corn which is just beginning to be dry enough to market. The drought has made the crop some lighter than was expected, however, there will be much corn to go to market from this county, more than has ever gone from here before.

Cotton is beginning to open, and within two weeks cotton pickers will be in demand here. The crop is not as heavy as usual on account of boll weevil, and more land was put in corn and other feedstuff, but the hot weather has driven the weevils away to a great extent and prospects are very fine for a fair yield.

A very fine cane, feterita, maize and hay crop was raised here this year.

SANGER BUYERS ARE LEAVING FOR EAST

SEVERAL ALREADY PURCHASING EXTENSIVE NEW LINES FOR THIS COMING FALL.

All of Them Are Optimists Over Prospects for Good Business in Next Few Months.

Many of the buyers for the Sanger store are now in the markets selecting the new merchandise for fall. Among those who went very early were Miss A. Huthmacher, buyer of the millinery department, and Harry Wheeler, buyer for the shoe department. M. Fromm, buyer for the women's, misses' and children's departments left Thursday and J. C. Daniels, H. Taylor, Forrest Jackson and others of the first floor buyers will leave very shortly.

These buyers who anticipate and provide for the wants and desires of Sanger store patrons necessarily have to be close students of conditions generally, not alone judges of the best styles and novelties that are adapted to this section, but they must study crop conditions and business conditions and a talk with several of them revealed the fact that they are very optimistic about business conditions for the coming fall and winter months and they give good reasons for their optimism, basing it on the fact that farmers have diversified this year and that at the same time much cotton is going to be produced and further that with the warehouse agitation people are planning to take care of their cotton to better advantage this year than ever before.

The buyers who have already left and those who are yet to go all agree that their stocks for fall will be purchased on the usual extensive scale, and that equally as large, if not larger varieties and assortments will be shown by the Sanger store, as in the past.

Difference in Axles Explained by Oden

"Few people understand what is meant by the terms, 'semi-floating' and 'full-floating,' as applied to rear axle construction," states W. M. Oden, distributor for the Haynes Light Six. "Axles may be divided roughly into two classes, dead and live axles. All horse-drawn vehicles are equipped with dead axles, that is, the axles do not revolve with the wheels, but are fixed, usually being bolted directly to the springs or body, preventing rotation.

"Suppose, however, that the springs be bolted to a steel tube or pipe instead of the dead axle, as before. Then, if the round axle be run through this pipe and fastened to the wheel at the end, so that the wheel and axle must revolve together, it is called a live axle because it turns with the wheel. The tube or pipe in which it revolves is known as the housing.

"Then, if ball bearings be placed inside the housing, so that the axle turns on the bearings, it is said to be of the floating type because the axle floats in the housing. The wheel is mounted on an outside ball bearing at the end of the housing, so that it may revolve freely, and is fastened on the outer side to the axle by means of the hub plate.

"The entire weight on the wheel is carried by the housing and not by the axle. The end thrust, however, as when the car is rounding a corner, must all be borne by the axle, which sometimes results in serious trouble. This is 'semi-floating' construction. With this type the wheel must usually be taken off in order to get the axle out.

"The wheel on the 'full-floating' type is mounted on the housing so that it not only rolls around on ball bearings, but also absorbs all end thrust on ball bearings, known as thrust bearings.

"This construction takes all the strain of bad roads, including both weight and end thrust, off the axle and puts it on the housing where it should be."

Water Department Improving Service at Oakwood Cemetery

The water department has put in a larger pipe in the main drive in Oakwood cemetery. They are now running laterals in the alleys west of the main drive, where the pressure has been so poor on account of small pipes, some of which have been in for twenty years, and laid without reference to any system, one tied on to another until none could get service.

If parties owning lots will visit the cemetery next week, the employees of the water department will be glad to help straighten out their service pipes and show them how to connect so as to get good pressure.

SHREVEPORT RATE CASE IS DECIDED

EFFECT OF ORDER BY COMMERCE COMMISSION BENEFICIAL TO SHIPPERS.

ANOTHER ACTION IS PENDING

Dallas, Fort Worth and Waco Seeking Relief From Rules Formerly Promulgated.

"The real effect of the order issued yesterday by the interstate commerce commission placing almost all of Eastern Texas in the territory affected by the Shreveport rate case, will be to give Shreveport shippers the same rates for stuff shipped west as apply for Eastern Texas cities shipping east," said C. W. Payne, manager of the Waco Sash and Door company, and chairman of the shippers' committee, dealing with the Shreveport rate case. "Heretofore," said Mr. Payne, "the order of the commission was issued only to two railroads into Shreveport and its effect extended only to competition of Shreveport with Houston and Dallas. The order of the commission yesterday extends the order to all railroads in the territory between Shreveport on the east and Gainesville, Fort Worth and Waco on the west. The rates selected for Shreveport, are the Texas scale for 245 miles or less, and the Texas-Oklahoma scale for more than 245 miles and up to 450 miles. This means that Shreveport shippers will be able to ship to East Texas points at the same rates that Texas points can ship east toward Shreveport.

"Another case that involves the Shreveport-Texas controversy is still pending before the railroad commission. This is the petition of Dallas and Fort Worth for the same rates from St. Louis and other river points as are in effect for Shreveport. The case has been admitted as an intervenor in the case, petitioning for the same treatment that is accorded Dallas and Fort Worth. The Texas cities pay a higher rate on shipments from St. Louis than other northern points. Then does Shreveport, and the equalization of the rates out of Shreveport with those out of Texas cities affected by the order yesterday gives Shreveport an advantage over Texas cities in common territory. The benefit of the order applies solely to Shreveport," Mr. Payne summed up.

Shreveport Is Benefitted.

The order issued by the interstate commerce commission Friday becomes effective Sept. 15, and has the effect of officially including practically all of Eastern Texas in the Shreveport territory. The order which is one of the most sweeping ever recorded coming from the commission, extends the effect of the Shreveport rate case to include Gainesville, Fort Worth, Waco, and all points between these points and Shreveport. "Eastern Texas" is defined by the commission's order as embracing all territory east of a line drawn through the places named, thence via Brazos river to the gulf. The commission establishes class rates to apply in the territory, but denies the application of the Louisiana railroad commission to extend the new order of things to include "the entire state of Texas." The commodity rate situation was adjusted, however, within the defined territory by the order equalizing the rates as between the east and westbound traffic.

There is established class rates for traffic westbound out of Shreveport and for traffic moving from points in the defined Texas territory toward Shreveport, which rates are the Texas commission scales up to distances of 245 miles, and from that to distances of 450 miles, the Texas-Oklahoma scale, as fixed in the case of the Oklahoma commission against the Santa Fe. In the commission's original order the Texas commission's scale was found to be classification which now governs applicable in the Shreveport case. It was admitted by petitioners in the pending case that the rates for hauls in excess of 245 miles as fixed by the Texas commission are not excessive, and since there is a similarity between the Texas commission's scale and the rates fixed in the Oklahoma case, the commission adopted the Texas-Oklahoma scale for distances over the 245-mile haul.

These rates begin for distances of ten miles and less and go from two to fifty miles up to 450. The minimum charge for class one is 13c, the maximum 1.07c. For class E the minimum is 4c, the maximum 28c. An additional allowance of 8c for first class and 2c for class E is made for joint line hauls.

Shift in Classification.

Eastern Texas is also shifted from the Texas classification to the western classification, which now governs shipments from Shreveport into Texas. The petitioners contended that the equalization of class rates, of itself, would not remove the unjust discrimination since the Texas classification is more liberal to the shipper. The commission found this to be true and cites as an instance the minimum carload weights.

Claim of the Louisiana railroad commission on commodity rates was only partly sustained. Shreveport shippers claimed unjust discrimination against them on crude oil, hides and wool, common brick, window glass, tight barrels, wooden handles, hardware, agricultural implements, wholesale groceries, saddlery, vehicles, wholesale produce and automobiles. It was asked to name specific rates on these commodities between Shreveport and practically throughout the entire state of Texas. The commission says:

"We do not find in the record all that would be necessary to support such an order, could we lawfully make it. Neither do we find evidence as to what the specific maximum commodity rates should be."

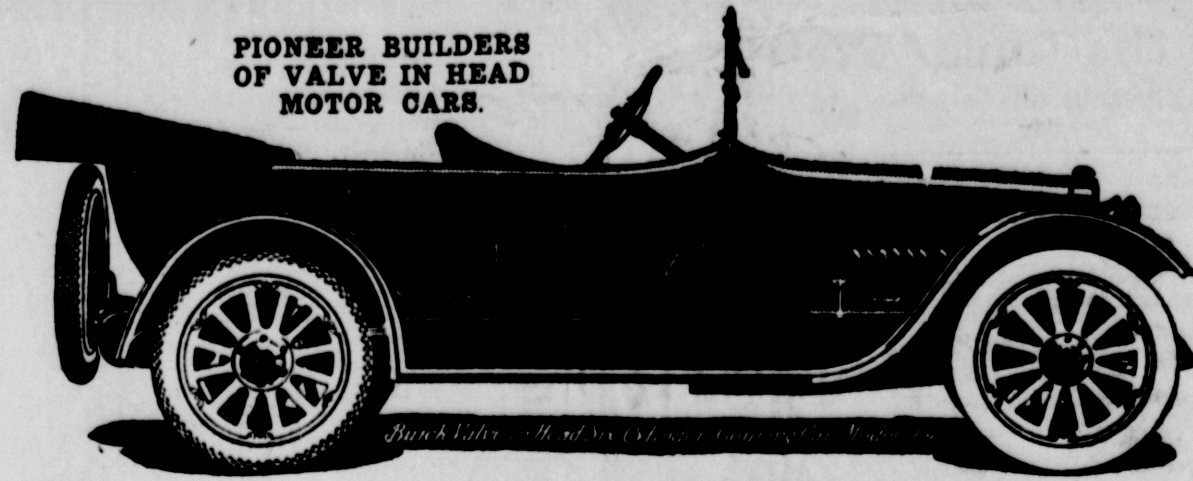

The record was ample, the commission says, that Shreveport petitioners protected against unjust discrimination in favor of points in Eastern Texas. The order requires that the rates on commodities from Shreveport into Eastern Texas shall be higher than those contemporaneously charged for equal distances from points in Eastern Texas toward Shreveport, and such commodity rates may not exceed, distance considered, the corresponding class rates named in the order.

Rates as to Cotton.

Rates on cotton for compressing applying to Shreveport and those to Eastern Texas concentrating points are also leveled in the manner applicable to the class and commodity rates; that is, the rates on uncompressed cotton from Texas points into Shreveport shall not be distance considered, higher than such rates on this commodity to Eastern Texas concentration points. The rates to Eastern Texas concentra-

BUICK VALVE-IN-HEAD six cylinder motors: Rigid frames of wide channel steel; easy riding springs of finest alloy steel; absolutely dependable, full floating rear axle; fine quality mohair tops; real leather upholstery (not imitation or cotton cloth), stuffed with high grade curled hair (not excelsior), made over deep coil springs. Honeycomb radiator (not an ordinary tubular type), beautiful streamline bodies (not a freakish imitation), Delco lighting, ignition and starting system (the ordinary cheap kinds are not good enough for Buick quality); spiral bevel gears (not the ordinary plain bevel); Cantilever rear springs (not the 3-4 elliptic). tion points, the commission finds, are much lower than the rates applicable to Shreveport. Likewise, it is found that the rates into Shreveport are higher than the mileage scale governing interstate movement of uncottonized cotton into concentrating points of Arkansas and Mississippi. In instances the rates to Shreveport exceed the rate to final destination.

The case arose on an application of the Louisiana railroad commission for an extension of the principle originating under the Shreveport rate case, decided by the commission on March 11, 1912, and today's order is accepted as an application for extension of the order to include other Texas markets. The Fort Worth freight bureau sought to intervene upon the contention that any broadening of the order would unduly discriminate against it. The Texas-Kansas commercial club also sought to intervene, asking that any relief given Shreveport should be extended to that market. The commission says that since both petitions would have had the effect of enlarging the real issues, they were denied.

At the hearing the Texas railroad commission was represented, but entered no appearance of record. There is pending before the commission a petition filed by the freight bureau department of the Dallas chamber of commerce and the Fort Worth freight bureau, naming twenty railroads as principal defendants in direct line from St. Louis, Dallas, Texarkana and Shreveport and fifty other defendant railroads participating directly or indirectly in the traffic from St. Louis and Kansas City and beyond to the points named. The claim is made that Shreveport is enjoying a lower rate from Kansas City and St. Louis than are the Texas towns, thus enabling Shreveport to compete for trade in Texas common point territory, and territory covered by merchants of Dallas and Fort Worth. The case is known in Texas as the "Shreveport rate case."

The petition of Waco shippers to intervene in this case and obtain the same advantages that may be granted to Dallas and Fort Worth has been granted by the commission.

Bell County Fair October 4 to 9

Joe F. Cornish, secretary-treasurer of the Bell County Agricultural Fair association, and well known throughout the southwest, was a visitor in Waco yesterday, mingling with his numerous Waco friends. Mr. Cornish said:

"The Bell county fair will be pulled off Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 this fall, and with the vast opportunities and possibilities before the people of the South-and especially Texas, we felt justified in giving a six-day event, each day to have something of special interest to every one of this section. The agricultural resources of Central Texas will be shown in their fullest value. Diversification, fruit-growers, truck-growers, swine breeders, live stock men, poultry fanciers, and all the different branches of farm and out-door occupations will have their exhibits.

"Industrially speaking, there will be exhibits showing that within our midst we can manufacture many things of use in every day life, and in this way will create a further interest in home institutions, that they may continue to grow and prosper by being patronized by home people, as they should. Our race course events will be especially interesting and a cordial invitation is extended all lovers of horse flesh to come to our fair and enjoy the big events with us.

"The fair grounds are located midway between Temple and Belton, twin cities of the rich and fertile Bell county, known far and wide for its fertility of soil, and the quality of its agricultural products, and our friends and neighbors of Waco and McLennan will be given a most cordial reception.

"I believe the time is ripe for all Texas to pull together as never before, to capture the business that rightfully belongs to us. With all crops bringing a good price, business getting better all the time, and a feeling of optimism on the part of every one, there should be no cause for complaint.

"Waco and Temple and Belton and all sister cities of the great Central Texas section can well afford to get in harness together and pull off big events that will attract outsiders and cause them to know that here are possibilities and opportunities as grand as anywhere on the face of the globe, and bring about a feeling of good will among our own people toward each other, pushing and boosting together to one ultimate end—prosperity for us all."

—Mister Squeegie

Now and then even a tail-end baseball team will play a wonderful game.

The pitcher will have everything on the ball, everybody will bat well and field faultlessly, and luck will break right all the way.

But the good games that come once or twice a month are not the ones on which the standing of the cellar champions is figured.

The team that stays up in the first division must play well day after day.

So it is with tires. Their excellence is not based on the extraordinary mileage that the occasional one gives.

It is the general average of service that must be considered in estimating tire values.

Diamond Squeegie Tread Tires are in favor, not because of the performance of an occasional one, but because of the superior merits of more than 99% of them.

Study Construction of Automobiles

"Do mechanics interest young ladies?" "Yes," answered Miss Mary M. Callahan, directress of the physical training department of St. Mary's Academy and College at Notre Dame, Ind., "and much more than is ordinarily the case, as I have found, if she is a motor car enthusiast."

Miss Callahan is in position to speak competently on the subject for at her suggestion the faculty of St. Mary's adopted a course of study for the young ladies who might be interested, and this did not prove to include only those students who drove or had access of cars; the others were possibly looking into the future. It is probably the first instance of its kind, with institutions devoted to the education of young ladies, but the announcement becomes of more than ordinary interest from the fact that it evidences a timely recognition being given the rapidly growing popularity of motor driving among the fair sex.

It is not regarded essential, with present simplified methods of automobile construction, that the owner be especially schooled in a knowledge of the parts entering into the construction of the car, but nevertheless this knowledge adds to the satisfaction of owning and greatly increases the pleasure of driving, according to those who have so familiarized themselves. For another important reason, it is recognized as insuring better care and less abuse of the car.

Miss Callahan consulted with officials of the Studebaker Corporation relative to the best methods for training and securing the most practical results. She found them to be greatly interested and agreeable to lending every assistance possible, from appreciation of the general good that could result to the automobile manufacturing industry. The public spirit of Studebaker also prompted the offering of a completely equipped Studebaker chassis for the use of the class.

According to the instructress, great interest is being taken by the young ladies in the work and they show now, while learning to drive, even more than during the in-door term, their appreciation and grasp of knowledge gained from the lessons given. A photograph Miss Callahan had taken of the class and sent to Studebaker shows the young ladies familiarizing themselves with motor and transmission arrangement, and the relation each function of motor machinery bears to another. Fifty points are the limit for any line of work in the physical education department of St. Mary's, Miss Callahan explains in outlining her method of instruction. "At the close of the in-door term," she states, "oral and written examinations were held, thirty points being the highest number given, while for driving twenty points were apportioned."

St. Mary's college is located at a high point on the banks of the St. Joseph river, at a point directly opposite where De LaSalle disembarked in making his explorations of the Mississippi valley. The grounds are heavily wooded and lined with winding drives, while the surrounding country affords opportunity for delightful trips, so that the recreation and pastime found in motoring has an impelling incentive which explains the enthusiastic response given the plan to establish a course in motor car construction by the students.

This inauguration may be regarded as commendable evidence of the endeavors being made to broaden the field of practical training and learning, that the young woman of the future may be properly equipped for independence.

Pat Cleburne Camp Will Meet Today

Present Time Better.

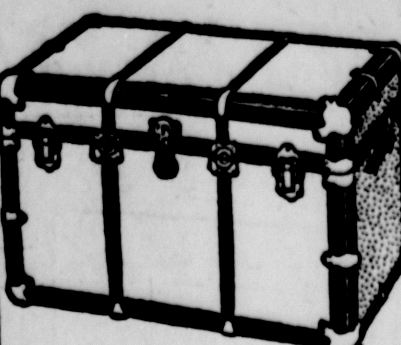

Advantages of the present time over the time first arranged are pointed out by Y. M. B. L. leaders, who state that the nearness to the Cotton Palace season, which the trade trips are intended especially to advertise, and the fact that summer harvesting is over, make the latter time especially desirable. A committee from the directors of the Cotton Palace association is working in the original schedule of the first trip was to be for the trips in one day when the Y. M. B. L. committees canvassed the town April 15, and it is expected to add several to this number during the campaign Tuesday afternoon.

Popular enthusiasm aroused by the announcement that the trade trips would be run, despite the complications occasioned by the raising of rates by railroads, which caused a postponement of the first trip from May 6 to July 22, bair to insure that every ticket signed for in April will be delivered by the teams Tuesday afternoon. Under the original schedule the first trip was to be run to Tyler May 6. Under the new schedule the first trip will be run to Tyler next Thursday, and it is probable that other of the original plans will be carried out.

Crawford Justice Binds Man Over for Illegal Liquor Sales

Doe Spurlin was bound over on a charge of selling liquor in prohibition territory yesterday at Crawford Justice Sherrill, his bond being fixed at $750. County Attorney John B. McNamara and Assistant County Attorney John B. Atkinson represented Spurlin in the case. He has been held against Spurlin in the county court.

Negligent Homicide Charge is Filed Against L. Dillon

L. Dillon is charged with negligent homicide in a complaint filed yesterday in the county court. A week ago last night the body of C. F. Marrs was found on North Fifth street, with the head caved in. Three boys who reported the matter first said that they were walking along and found the body, afterwards saying that they were riding in an auto with Dillon and Marrs; that Marrs met his death when the car ran close to the curb, his head striking a telephone pole and he was knocked to the pavement.

At the inquest and since Dillon has declared that he was in East Waco at the time the boys say the car went out North Fifth street, and has denied the story told by the boys. Justice Padgett, who held the inquest, held that the death occurred as told by the boys. Parties of what it is claimed was Marrs' hat were found on the pole.

It is claimed that he was driving in excess of ten miles an hour and that Marrs' death was the result of his exceeding the speed limit, or partially so, within the meaning of the law.

Falls County Boy to Run for Treasurer

Friends in this city of Elmer Adams, who was reared in Falls county and who was three years assistant cashier of the First State bank of Chilton, and who for the past two years has been cashier of the bank at Farmers Branch, have received information to the effect that he will in all probability in the race for state treasurer in 1916.

AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON SATURDAY

SIX PROPOSITIONS WILL BE SUBMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP AT SPECIAL ELECTION.

WHERE SHALL BALLOTS BE CAST?

One Measure Would Allow Voters to Use Privilege Anywhere—Officials for County Named.

Everything is in readiness in McLennan county for the vote on the various proposed amendments to the constitution of Texas which will be held throughout the state next Saturday, July 24. While there has been more or less discussion of all the proposed amendments in this county and elsewhere throughout the state, there are some of them which have not aroused much enthusiasm.

The proposed amendment that appears to hold the center of the stage, so far as popular interest is concerned, just now is that which seeks to permit persons away from home on election day to vote wherever they may be, under certain restrictions, for state and district officers and on state issues, this amendment requiring, also, that persons to be entitled to vote shall be full-fledged citizens of the United States. There is largely a prohibition and anti-prohibition line-up on this amendment, the more active pros, for the most part, championing the amendment, and the more active antis, for the most part, opposing it. However, many of the papers of the state which are opposed to prohibition are in favor of the amendment.

Probably next in popular interest stands the Sackett resolution, which proposes to permanently separate the University of Texas and the A. & M. college and permanently establish the College of Industrial Arts at Denton. This amendment is backed by practically all of the farming, laboring and other interests of that character and there has developed practically no opposition to it. Friends of A. & M. college are particularly active in behalf of its adoption. Many of the political conventions of the state have adopted platforms calling for such an amendment.

Another proposed amendment seeks to increase the membership of the state supreme court from three to five amendments, the argument being that the court is three years behind with its docket and an increase of the membership is the only way out of the difficulty. Although Texas is the largest state in the Union, it has one of the very smallest supreme courts. The state bar association is championing the amendment.

Considerable interest is centered, too, in the amendment which would make it possible for the commissioners' courts of the various counties to establish a students' loan fund to be loaned to worthy young men and women in the completion of their education. The creation of the fund would be optional with each county and the special tax of 20c on the $100 valuation for the creation of the fund can be abolished by a majority vote after two years' trial if it is found to be unsatisfactory.

Still another amendment provides for increasing the amount of tax that may be voted by the people of a certain district for the maintenance of good roads, while the last one provides for increasing the amount which drainage and levee districts may, and themselves for the purpose of improvement, the increase contemplated being from 25 per cent to 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property involved.

Friends of education are urging the merits of the student loan fund, good roads advocates are enthusiastic for the amendment increasing the fund available for this purpose, and drainage and levee men estimate that adoption of the levee amendment would add $200,000,000 to the taxable values of the state by enabling land owners in bottoms and elsewhere to redeem their land.

The election will be held at the customary voting places in this county and the presiding judges will be as follows: Waco, ward 1, R. P. Sturges; ward 2, C. K. Weil; ward 3, M. H. Standefer; ward 4, J. L. Lefevre; ward 5, Will Reese; ward 6, J. W. Dudley; Daughtrey's Dairy, Jim D. Hay; Robinson, L. T. Stovall; Rosenthal, R. P. Brown; Hewitt, E. P. Wall; Whitehall, W. H. Christian; Chalk Bluff, Joe Smith; Ghobson, W. M. Walker; Ross, J. L. Jones; West, C. P. Zapala; Bosqueville, W. H. Gorman; Speegleville, Arthur Mills; Patrick, T. J. Loke; Chisham Springs, H. C. STALKING THE CRIMINAL by Wm. J. Burns

Real Adventures of a Real Detective In Running To Cover, Counterfeiters, Bank Robbers, Dynamiters, Blackmailers and Other Offenders Against the State and Federal Laws.

THE life of a detective is about as perilous, arduous and irregular as it is possible to be. There is never a moment in the night or day that he is absolutely safe, for in these days of gangs and organized crime, the taking of one that stands between them and their coveted goal, is a mere detail. A man engaged in the detection of crime and criminals never has a minute to call his own—he never knows where his claws will lead him—and furthermore there are no set hours for his work. I have worked continuously for sixty hours without a wink of sleep.

I might say that the detection of crime is affected by the march of time almost as perceptibly as the fashions. New crimes are constantly cropping up and new and more astute criminals appear as their authors. In the old days whenever we heard of a big counterfeit job, or a big bank robbery, we could tell at a glance what gang was implicated and who the ring leader was. Each counterfeiter and each bank robber had his own peculiar style and he invariably left his mark on the job just completed. The thief and crook of today is an altogether different type. Of course counterfeiting still flourishes and banks are still robbed. As the field broadens so does the scope of the work of the criminal. Bank jobs are confined almost exclusively to the yeggmen, that rough and murderous band of rovers who prey on small town banks and outlying post offices. They are past masters in the art of applying explosives and they can blow any safe that ever was made if they have time enough.

Added to their skill with the application of nitroglycerine, electricity has been of material aid to them for, today, the electric drill is of prime importance in drilling and blowing a safe.

Tracking A Counterfeiter.

There was a case I worked on while in the United States Secret Service that always recalls to me the value of a clever and impenetrable disguise. The man I was seeking at the time was Charles Ulrich, one of the most dangerous counterfeiters in the world. He was a German of refinement and cultivation that gave him the entire into the highest social centres of this country and Europe. I had learned that Ulrich had just emerged from a German prison where he had spent a long term for counterfeiting. The very fact that he was free again was enough to put Federal officials on their guard, for Ulrich was of that type which just could not keep out of mischief. Counterfeiting with him was a passion and the plates he turned out were such masterpieces that bank engravers from them would almost defy detection. None but an expert could note the fraud, for they were in reality works of art. No word had come from Germany to prove that Ulrich had embarked for these shores but the Chief of the Service deemed it wise to be on the lookout for him, and I was detailed for the work. We knew that if he was in this country at that time he would turn up sooner or later so the precautionary measures were deemed advisable.

After two months of hard work I located my man in Cincinnati. He was occupying a room in a furnished room house in a good neighborhood. His room was the second floor front and by rare good luck I was able to rent a flat directly across the street from whose windows a good and unobstructed view of Ulrich's room could be had. My observations were made more often at night. I would sit in my darkened flat and keep close watch on Ulrich's windows. I could keep tabs on his movements in this way for I knew if I appeared in the least curious in daylight he was too wary a bird to be caught napping and that he would move to other quarters.

Disguised as a clerk in modest circumstances I would leave my flat a regular hour each morning and return at the same hour each evening. Of course, I made it a point never to leave the neighborhood and at all hours of the day I was lurking near to keep a watch on his comings and goings, and wherever he went I was trailing along at a safe distance. Many times, disguised as a plumber, gas fitter, or carpenter, I managed to gain entrance to the house Ulrich lived in and once or twice I was fortunate enough to get into his room. A careful survey of the premises was enough to prove that Ulrich was up to his old tricks and it would be only a question of a short time before the country would be flooded with the spurious bank notes he would turn loose. I knew in order to protect the innocent it was necessary to catch Ulrich before he sprung his trap and that made the work all the more perilous and all the more exciting. I knew there was no chance of scraping up an acquaintance with him for he wasn't one of that kind. His friends and acquaintances were selected with care, for he had been caught too often by such acts of indiscretion.

Ulrich About To Flee.

After three months of trailing I saw Ulrich leave his room one morning carrying a suitcase. I suspected the identity of the band he was working with, but Ulrich was the man I wanted to get, and get right. He went to the railroad station and without the formality of purchasing a ticket boarded a train bound East. I boarded the same train and took a chair at the rear of the car he occupied. As I suspected he paid his fare through to Philadelphia, and at the first opportunity I got a telegram off to Chief Hazen asking him to meet me in Philadelphia. Sure enough Hazen was there when Ulrich, closely followed by me, left the train. We followed him down Broad street to Chestnut street where he entered a telegraph office.

Approaching the desk he picked up a pen and began to write a telegram asking the person addressed to meet him at his hotel. I tipped up to his side and was peering over his shoulder as he wrote. He had left the name and address blank, suddenly becoming aware of my presence he turned on me and in his broken English exclaimed: "Vel, Vat der hell you want to see. Maybe you know who I write to and vat I want to say."

"I do," I replied, and picking up the pen I filled in the name and address he had omitted.

With a cry of rage he sprang upon me and for a moment it was touch and go, but I managed to land a stiff right hand punch on the jaw which left me master of the situation. He gave in and I not only succeeded in fastening the case on him, seizing all his plates and engraving tools, but his last hour on earth had arrived. I was confident that gang would get me sooner or later, and none was more surprised than I was when I emerged from the case, after getting the convictions of all those I apprehended, with a whole skin. If all the threats that were made against my life during that stirring interval had been carried out I would have died a hundred horrible deaths. But I attribute my escape more to the many disguises I used than to any other factor.

worth thirty cents. And to tell the truth I was fully prepared for any emergency that might have arisen for time without number I thought my last hour on earth had arrived. I was confident that gang would get me sooner or later, and none was more surprised than I was when I emerged from the case, after getting the convictions of all those I apprehended, with a whole skin. If all the threats that were made against my life during that stirring interval had been carried out I would have died a hundred horrible deaths. cases, in which these men in their war on non-union labor stopped at nothing to prove just how violent they could become when the point at issue needed emphasis. It did not take me long to get on the trail of the arch conspirators of this diabolical plot and this time I was soon mingling with them, even sitting in at their councils as one of them. Of course, this required no end of disguises. It made no difference what character I impersonated as long as I was able to freely mingle with the persons I wanted to watch and whose secrets I desired to learn. I ran the gamut from a hard working blacksmith to structural iron worker. I was a laboring man at all times and this was the type of man they always welcomed at their conclaves.

Lead On A Merry Chase.

I don't think I exaggerate in the least when I say that that case took me in every state in the Union. Whereas I had a hundred men working on the case with me yet, wherever there was action, I had to be on the spot and at the psychological moment, too. It required ceaseless travel and long hours. There was one man in the plot who I knew could tell me more about what was going on and what had been done than any other person concerned. That was Orrie MacManigle, although I hadn't been able to prove that he had committed any actual act of violence himself, I got from him all that was possible for a human to learn, but I soon gave him up for a more promising candidate who proved to be even more cagey than MacManigle.

I disguised myself as an iron worker and whereas I did all in my power to make myself as indispensable as possible to this man he didn't warm up to me as fast as I would have liked, and this made my task all the harder. I did not think it safe to let him think I was seeking him so every time we met it had to be so arranged as to appear to him that it was a chance affair. This naturally kept me busy, for he was suspicious to say the least. I spent a lot of money on him when we "chanced" to meet in saloons and those places where men of his class congregated. To loosen his tongue I found required inordinate quantities of liquor, and when I got him in a talkative mood I learned that if there was one person on earth this chap more cordially hated than another it was William J. Burns, the detective. He was so scathing in his remarks about this fellow Burns that at times it was all I could do to keep my hands from his throat.

There were times when I was tempted to believe that despite my disguises he knew who I was and that he was talking for my benefit. But he was not reassuring in the least. One of these fears were groundless for one day I got him right. He was thirsty and eager to drink all I was ready to buy for him. When his tongue was loosened to the required degree he waxed confidential and before I left him I had learned his innermost secrets, which was the very clew I was working hard to pick up. I had upon leaving him, the clews to a score of trails I had been trying to locate, and when the arrests that followed became known my loquacious friend awoke to a realization that Burns, the detective, his bitterest enemy, had put one over on him and learned from his own lips just who had committed the various crimes I was seeking to solve. The hotels of the larger cities are favorite places of rendezvous for the well dressed, smooth, crooks who can touch elbows with our wealthiest and most influential citizens without arousing the least suspicion. They know how to conduct themselves with the well bred men of those about them, yet these hawks are there to pounce upon at a moment's notice any of the unwary who might prove promising game in their relentless clutches. They are there to blackmail, or work any other kind of swindle that a man of brains might conceive.

Woman Is Black-Mailed.

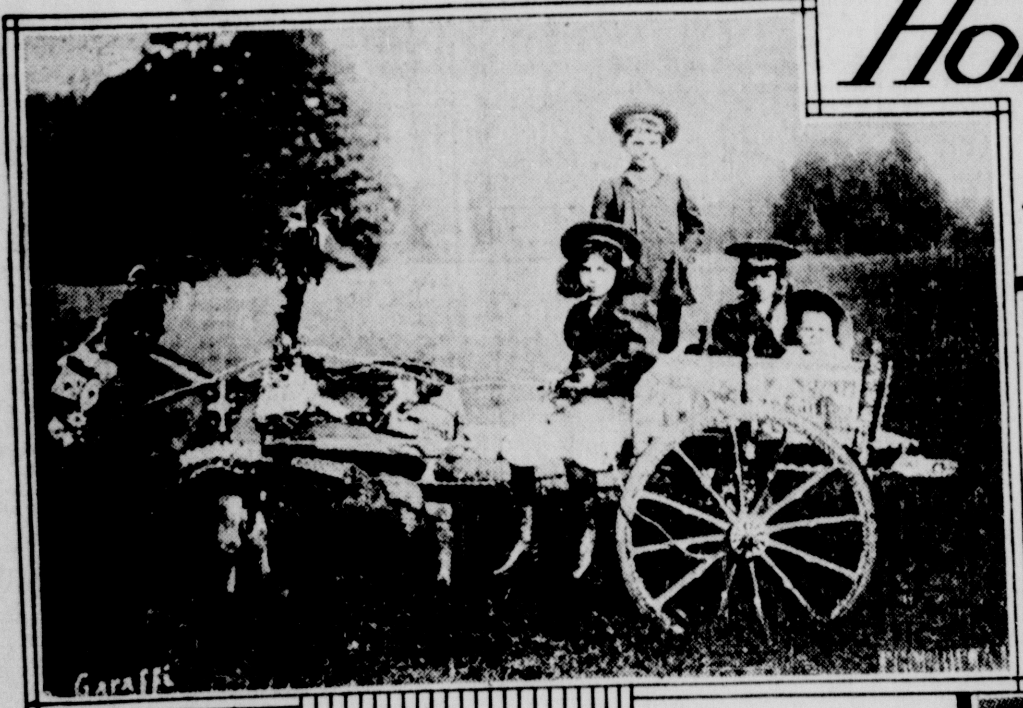

I recall a case that was staged in one of New York's most fashionable hotels not long ago, in which a woman of fashion was the innocent victim. This woman's husband was of a violently jealous temperament and was directed against a man, a rival banker, whose reputation was anything but savory, where women were concerned. He had been mixed up in a number of scandals that ended in the divorce courts. Yet he went the even tenor of his way and continued to coin money and move in the same exclusive fashionable circles.

This wife and another woman met at this hotel for luncheon. They had just taken their seats when the man in question appeared. He stood chatting at their table when a page appeared and told the other woman she was wanted at the telephone. The man took this woman's seat at the table and chatted with the wife in the absence of the other woman, which extended to nearly half an hour. When she returned the man was still there and had ordered his luncheon to be served at that table.

The next day the wife received a note telling her that unless she paid a stipulated sum—$5,000—her husband would be notified at once that she had lunched with the man in question the day previous. Further the writer of the note had a dozen witnesses to prove that she and the man were at the table alone for half an hour and that they were not joined by the other woman until their luncheon was nearly completed. It was easy to prove that the wife and the man had met by appointment and that the presence of the other woman was accidental.

The wife, although totally unaware of any wrong intent, knew so well how violently opposed her husband was to her being seen in the same room with the man in question that she realized what a difficult task it would be to prove her innocence. Her husband would believe what the blackmailers said, and any excuse or alibi that she might offer, would be scoffed at. After pondering over the matter for several days, in the course of which she received several letters more threatening than the first, she pawned her jewels and raised the five thousand dollars which she handed over to a woman of fashion. This in one of the fashionable hotels. This is but one of a hundred cases that came to my attention in the last year. And they are cropping up every day

Home Life of the ITALIAN RULER

An Intimate Sketch of Victor Emmanuel the Third—His Happy Home With His Wife and Four Children.

THERE is more or less curiosity and sometimes idle speculation about the domestic life of royalty. As the royal family are men and women with all the weaknesses, caprices and desires of the average human being it would seem that the home life should be about the same as that of any family of affluence and culture. But reasons of State frequently impose restrictions upon the domestic as well as upon the political affairs of rulers and this must to a certain extent reflect upon their character and influence their private lives.

Early Childhood Under Strict Regime.

When King Humbert was assassinated on July 29, 1900, his son, who became known as Victor Emmanuel the Third, came to the throne. The young prince was thirty-one years of age at the time and was well fitted for the position he was to occupy. Born at Naples, his infancy was spent at Court, where he was brought up under the supervision of his mother, Queen Margherita, a splendid, cultured woman. In honor of the city of his birth the boy was given the title of the Prince of Naples. His early life was lonely for he had no childhood companions and the regime under which he lived was strict. From the age of ten he was made to rise at daybreak and after a cold bath and a cup of broth he began his daily tasks. If he lingered in bed he was made to wait for the bouillon until after his first lesson. His military education was as near perfect as possible, he having been drilled in all the grades from corporal to colonel. He is an excellent horseman, and before the war he frequently rode out with the cavalry in their practice marches and took the jumps beside the men. His endurance in the saddle might be compared to that of a Western cowboy.

Married To Please Himself.

His fondness for art led to his meeting with Princess Elena of Montenegro while both of them were attending an art exhibition at Venice in 1895.

Queen Elena

King Victor Emmanuel III

The Princess was of the beautiful Oriental type and the young Prince was fascinated by her rich beauty and charm of manner. In short, the young people fell in love with each other and Prince Victor Emmanuel announced his intention of marrying her to his parents. A storm of protest came from Crispi, who was at that time the Prime Minister, for he had selected another Princess for Italy's future Queen, but the young Prince was determined to wed the girl of his choice and declared that he would wed Elena or remain a bachelor. Finally King Humbert succeeded in overcoming Crispi's objections by saying that he approved of the choice and that the Princess was the descendant of a brave race that had fought for liberty and he was proud to have her marry his son. "The House of Montenegro," he said, "like our own House is synonymous with liberty." The marriage was solemnized in Rome in October, 1896, after the Princess had renounced her faith in the Greek Church and become a Roman Catholic.

Ever since that time the Montenegrin Princess has been her husband's right hand and comfort. Their married life has been unusually happy, perhaps because their tastes were similar and they both dislike show and pomp. In fact, the Italians complain that they see too little of the King and Queen, who rarely entertain or allow themselves to be entertained, preferring to use the money which would be spent for that purpose in aiding the many charities in which they are interested.

Interesting Children.

Four children have blessed the union—three girls and a boy, the pretty Prince Humbert of Piedmont (as he is styled to recall the name and title borne by his grandfather), the heir to the throne. The little fellow, although only eleven years of age, shows a keen and intelligent interest in military affairs—a fact which is winning the affection of the people of Rome. A short time ago he visited the post of the Bersaglieri (the crack infantry of the country) and asked scores of questions about the things he saw at the barracks. He also returned the salutes of the men with military precision, which delighted the crowd who followed him.

The oldest child of the family is the Princess Iolande Margherita, who was born in 1901, the news of her birth being received with the greatest joy. "Of course, I should have been pleased had it been a prince," said the King, "but I am extremely happy." The people turned to celebrate the occasion and a procession of children carried flowers to the Quirinal. As a memento of the joyful occasion of Iolande's birth a cradle and baby outfit were distributed to all children born in Italy on the same day and where the child's parents were poor one hundred liras ($20.00) were added. These things were the gifts of the Queen. The King granted amnesty to a certain class of offenders and distributed food to the poor. The baby was baptized a few days later in the hall of the Quirinal in the presence of the entire Court. Presents came from all parts of the world even from far away Africa for King Menelik sent four elephant tusks of unusual size and beauty to serve as supports for her cradle.

A second Princess was born in November, 1902, and named Mafalda. Although the King was again disappointed because the child was a girl he celebrated the occasion by distributing three hundred thousand liras ($60,000.00) in presents for hospitals and other charities.

There was the greatest rejoicing on November 15, 1904, when the little prince was born and the continuance of power in the House of Savoy assured. To celebrate this birth the King granted amnesty to deserters and shortened the term of many prisoners. Several years later another princess was born and given the name of Jeanne.

Many Palaces.

The royal couple have a number of homes, but the King likes to be in touch with his Cabinet at all times, so he prefers the Quirinal; the Queen, however, is fond of the summer home at Racconigi. The King has cut down all extravagant palace and reception expenses, and at all his homes whether it be at Racconigi, the summer home at San Rossore, the autumn home at his shooting box at Castel Poreiano, to which he motors in spare hours, or his tiny cottage on the Island of Monte Cristo, he leads the life of a country gentleman of very quiet tastes. He was fond of yachting before he became King but during recent years he has found little time for this pleasure.

He believes that being a King is as much of a business as anything else and that in order to be a successful ruler this business must be given attention. When he came to the throne his knowledge of diplomacy and international law caused the sovereigns of Europe to take notice and they began to court Italy at once. A month after his accession he informed his Cabinet that all decrees requiring his signature must be presented to him several days beforehand in order that he might study them before he gave his approval, and his ministers soon came to know that laws and orders could no longer be passed unless the young King knew the whys and wherefores of the cases.

Charities and schools seem to be almost a hobby with both the King and Queen, for the chief interest of the latter outside her family is centered in the amelioration of the condition of the poorer classes, and she frequently accompanies the King on unexpected tours of inspection.

During their stay at the summer palace horseback riding is one of the chief amusements and it is no uncommon thing to see the King and Queen riding along a country road without attendants. The Queen is an accomplished violinist, a lover of art and poetry, and an author, having written a number of articles in the Servian language. The children are healthy little bodies and they row, swim, climb trees and romp just as other children do. Their favorite play thing, however, is a donkey and a gaily decorated Neapolitan cart. They all climb into this vehicle and with the Princess Iolanda as the driver they jolt over the grounds at their summer home.

In personal appearance Victor Emmanuel is thoroughly Italian, although a trifle fairer than most of his race and blue eyed. He is short, well built and wears the sweeping mustache so popular in Italy. The Queen is best described as tall and "willowy." Her complexion is olive, while her eyes are dark and her hair coal black. She dresses plain but with excellent taste and has a rare charm of manner.

The King has a strong drift toward Socialism and was not anxious to go to war, but when the plain people of Italy finally forced the nation into the conflict for the unredemmed Italian lands of Austria their democratic King decided to share his soldier's hardships. Then he took the field and turned the reins of government over (temporarily) to his uncle, the Duke of Genoa.

INVITATION TO OUR BELL

McCullough has appointed the Mesdames W. C. Harman and Frank Trau the committee of correspondence. Immediate steps were taken to get into touch with the powers that be. It is too soon to say that the Daughters of the American Revolution are alert to their opportunity, and if human endeavor can count, thousands of children of McLennan county will have the privilege of seeing the famous bell which cracked in glad peal of liberty for America. THE SOMETHING NEW FOR THE HUACO CLUB

The cabaret dinner, the very thing which high life is enjoying elsewhere, is coming into Waco life. And it will arrive with next Tuesday evening. This means that Bruce Duncan as house chairman, with his assistants at the Huaco club, has sent cards to notify all members that with Tuesday evening the first cabaret dinner will be enjoyed. Small tables will be set in the ball room, as many as fifteen. Eleven are already bespoken. The dinner service will be on the second floor, adjournment from these tables being made to the inner space for a dance. The menu will be so arranged that two hours will be consumed with the dinner, including these dance intervals. It is now proposed that the cabaret dinner shall become a strong feature in Huaco club life during the remainder of this season.

Mr. Duncan announces that no seats can be provided unless reservations are made before noon of each Tuesday.

MISSIS DAVIS INTRODUCED

BY MRS. E. L. FARLEY

Her guests, the Misses Nannie and Harriet Davis, having arrived just the day before from Dallas, Mrs. E. L. Farley of North Fifth street was hostess in a morning company of girls as introduction. The provision for pastime was the exciting game of buncie, with the corsage cluster for high score, falling to Miss Sallie Cartwright. Concluding the game, and after opportunity for more of the social side in this congenial coming together, was a two course luncheon. In both game and luncheon the hostess was assisted by the Mesdames R. V. McClain, Walter Reese and B. B. Bray. The guest list otherwise is, Mrs. Henry Wunderlick with the Misses Cartwright, Ruby McClain, Verda Lee McClain, Ruth Appell, Beverly Lastinger, Ruth Bruyere, Edith Bruyere, Mary Gorman, Nora Gorman, Wilma Schaffer, Lillian Taylor, Lillian Evans, Elizabeth Culver, Bess Herrick.

DINNER PARTIES AT HUACO

VISITORS COMPLIMENTED

The noticeable feature in the assembly for dinner out at the Huaco club on Friday evening, was the compliment paid to visitors. Several two bachelors particularly, were introduced in summer society in the pleasant manner.

Miss Virginia Rose presided at quite a pretty little dinner with pink prevailing tone, in courtesy to the guest of her brother, John Rose. This was a Cornell friend, in Kenneth McCutchan from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Other guests in this circle were Dr. and Mrs. Irvin Colkin, with the Misses Enrique Smith, Anne Risher, Margaret Gorman with John Rose, Bart Moore Jr., A. Sighenhorst with Mrs. Aubrey Lee. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potts introduced their brother, J. F. Davis from West Point by having at dinner, Miss Nettie Colkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Prade of Atlanta were guests of Bruce Duncan who escorted Mrs. Loretta Reeves.

For the Misses Weber of Texarkana with Miss Frances Hays, Langdon Laedde had reserved a table. His other guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Van Wyck with W. D. Lacey Jr. and Dr. Doyle Eastland.

CAMPER HAVE GAYETY

PASSING THROUGH CITY

The camp having broken at Valley Mills, visitors from Waco, Marlin and Austin are remaining for a round of gayety in the city. On Thursday the return from Valley Mills was made. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Truus Westbrook were entertained with the largest dinner party out at the Huaco, the weekly dance coming as the later in pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brazelton were also chaperons. The guests were the Mesdames Esther Woodward, Anita Shelton and Pauline Battle from Marlin, Mrs. Earl Cornwell and Miss Mabel Woolridge from Austin, Lilbourne and Albert Peterson from Hays, Mr. Miller, Dick Smith and Hugh White from Waco.

Last evening Betty Brazelton was host at the Huaco for a second jolly dinner. The same girls and matrons were included with escorts in Hugh White, Jake Turey, Dick Smith, William Morrow, Albert Peterson and W. B. Britton of Oklahoma City.

J. Lee Davis invites the party out for a swim at his country place today.

On Monday Dick Smith is dinner host at the Huaco.

JUST A WORD TO THE MEN

ON OUR CITY PARKS

The recent proposal of a gift to the city in another park has brought forward the remark from some men, "We have too many parks already for city expense." The editor of a women's department is not supposed to argue such a question from the standpoint of a voter. But she is hewing strictly to the line of her sphere when she argues that question from the standpoint of humanity. It is hoped that any man who feels that Waco has too many parks will make it his evening journey to take the rounds of what the city already possesses in recreation ground. This man will find in every ward hundreds of happy, frolicsome children; nay more, he will find many mothers, and some fathers, there with their little ones. Even in Sul Ross park, the so-called "silk stockings" neighborhood, any night will find mothers in calico dresses, mothers who have trudged many blocks after a hot, tiresome day in the home, to get this fresh breath and to give the children, fretful during the heat, opportunity for refreshing sleep. Nurses with sick babies are in Sul Ross park in the cool of the morning; others are under the shade at any time during the day. And what transpires in Sul Ross park is in all other ward parks, greater in degree as the "silk stockings" feature diminishes. This is not mentioning the thousands who pass through Cameron park, some for the cool outing, and some to spend the early morning or the late evening hours. The men may not know it, but this writer does, that parties from Temple, Marlin, Mart, West and other adjacent towns motor up for a day in our beautiful city park. Many a farmer comes into town for business and leaves his wife and little ones at Cameron park for the pleasure of the day. Mothers from the East Side have been seen with their sewing, come over in order that the little ones might have a park day.

The neighborhood from which the proposed park is donated has no ward recreation ground. Does it not seem logical that what transpires in every other ward of the city will be repeated there? We rather think so.

As for the cry, "Too many parks for the city's expense," can the city's money be spent to any better advantage than the health, the pleasure, the moral uplift of its people? Certainly it can not. Better a little less gasoline for the city automobile joy rides and a few more pennies for a lawn mower in the parks. The time is out of date in any city which aspires to the name of city for the sordid side of life only to be considered. The people are due something by way of health and pleasure for their taxes.

Nothing sooner brings this than a system of parks. A woman editor is not supposed to know how to discuss the rise in property value where a park is located. That is for that eighth of an inch extra brain tissue which man is known to possess. But that woman still insists that the men park visits in the evening during these dog days of summer, and then see if Waco can have "too many parks."

pickled cherry among her relishes. And they were delightful.

It really is in order to become up to the moment in phraseology and call all these fancy work clubs "Thimble parties." This is what they are called elsewhere.

Up in Buffalo they are agitating a certain day to be known as "Smile Day." We hope the women will not join in the movement, for theirs should be a smile day every day.

Dancing at the seaside resorts this season has already introduced a rival to the fox trot. This is the "globe trot," perhaps the rose by any other name smelling just as sweet.

It is indeed encouraging to the humane society that so many women all over the city are observing cruel practice and reporting the same to G. M. Yarbrough, the humane officer.

A new book is out with the title, "What Women Want." We thought it was long ago accepted that women do not know what they want. The men are sure they are correct in this belief.

The next time you take your drive look out for old stumps and old tree trunks, and see what has been done with them in making a heavy asset.

There are any number of these in Waco yards.

Mrs. H. C. Risher will continue in Montgomery indefinitely. While her mother, Mrs. Peel, is in no immediate danger, she is feeble after her recent illness, and Mrs. Risher will remain until strength is regained.

The next time we have a sure-enough high-life wedding, let us hope the groom will be a college man, so that we can introduce one of the late songs from orchestra during the wedding reception.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dugger have

Mr. F. Arthur Johnson Receives Interesting News From Dresden.

Mr. F. Arthur Johnson, who receives regular news from Dresden, is in receipt of a letter from Carl Braun, who is first violinist of the Royal orchestra of Dresden, and also a personal friend of Mr. Johnson. This letter remarks on the wonderful musical activity of Germany. He states that opera and concert are given to packed houses, notably Beethoven's "Fidelio," and that the interest shown that war was being carried on. This shows how important a part music plays in the life of the Germans. One thing noted also, was that while the French and English have prohibited the performance of German music, the Germans are giving as much French, English and Italian music as usual.

Saint-Saens, the great French composer, has even gone so far as to say that the Wagnerian operas were barbarous. The following is a clipping from the July Etude concerning Saint-Saens:

"The arrival of Saint-Saens in this country as a representative of the French government at the San Francisco Exposition is perhaps the most notable musical event of the month. The veteran composer of Samson and Delilah, Danse Macabre, and the slight but popular La Cygne, now in his eightieth year bravely traveled through the submarine zone on a vessel bearing French colors shortly after the sinking of the Lusitania. Apparently he is not afraid of submarines. He left New York almost immediately for San Francisco and he is said to have composed two works for the exposition, one entitled Hail, California, and a march."

Care for the Baby in Summer

ARTIFICIAL FEEDING.

When a baby is deprived of his natural food, that is, his mother's milk, and must be fed from a bottle, this method is called artificial feeding. It is fraught with many dangers for the baby and much difficulty for the mother. The baby must learn to digest a food not adapted to his delicate organs, often a hard task for him to accomplish, and because of the strange food, it may take several months for him to adapt himself and begin to grow and develop as he should.

The mother or nurse has also a difficult task. To take proper care of the milk, of the utensils needed in its preparation, and the nipples and bottles, means patient, daily devotion to petty details. It means constant study to see that the milk mixture given is exactly adapted to the baby's condition, and to increase or decrease it in quantity or strength in accordance with the baby's varying needs.

Beginning on the third day, the average baby should be given 3 ounces of water. To this should be added one tablespoonful of lime water and 2 level teaspoonfuls of sugar. This should be given in seven feedings.

At one week the average child requires 16 ounces of milk daily, which should be diluted with 16 ounces of water. To this should be added 3 tablespoonfuls of sugar and 2 ounces of lime water. This should be given in six feedings. The milk should be increased by one-half ounce every six days. The water should be reduced by the subject, and in a pamphlet published by the children's bureau of the department of labor, at Washington, D. C., called "Infant Care." This pamphlet is sent free to every one asking for it.

General Rules Artificial Feeding.
Some of the general rules of artificial feeding are these:

After the first month, the average healthy baby requires 1½ ounces of milk in 24 hours for every pound of weight, diluted with the proper amount of water for his age. Thus, a 10-pound baby will probably require 15 ounces of milk, diluted and sweetened as necessary, during 24 hours.

All increases either in the strength or quantity of the food must be made very gradually.

The following directions for feeding the baby have been prepared by a committee of the American Medical association:

Beginning on the third day, the average baby should be given 3 ounces of water. To this should be added one tablespoonful of lime water and 2 level teaspoonfuls of sugar. This should be given in seven feedings.

At one week the average child requires 16 ounces of milk daily, which should be diluted with 16 ounces of water. To this should be added 3 tablespoonfuls of sugar and 2 ounces of lime water. This should be given in six feedings. The milk should be increased by one-half ounce every six days. The water should be reduced by one-half ounce about every two weeks.

At 6 months the average child requires 24 ounces of milk daily, which should be diluted with 12 ounces of water. To this should be added 2 ounces of lime water and 3 even tablespoonfuls of sugar. This should be given in five feedings. The amount of milk should be increased by one-half ounce every week. The milk should be increased only if the child is hungry and digesting his food well. It should not be increased unless he is hungry, nor if he is suffering from indigestion even though he seems hungry.

At 9 months the average child requires 30 ounces of milk daily, which should be diluted with 10 ounces of water. To this should be added two even tablespoonfuls of sugar and 2 ounces of lime water. This should be given in five feedings. The sugar added may be milk sugar or if this can not be obtained cane (granulated) sugar or maltose (malt sugar). At first plain water should be used to dilute the milk.

At 3 months, sometimes earlier, a weak barley water may be used in the place of plain water. It is made of one-half level tablespoonful of barley flour to 16 ounces of water and cooked for 20 minutes.

At 9 months the barley flour may be increased to 1½ even tablespoonfuls cooked in the 12 ounces of water.

At 9 months the barley flour may be increased to 3 level tablespoonfuls, cooked in the 8 ounces of water.

Danger in Overfeeding.
Bottle-fed babies are very apt to suffer from overfeeding. They may be overfed because they are fed too much at one time, or because they are fed too often, or because the food is too rich for their digestion. They may also be upset because they are fed at irregular intervals.

The hot weather of July and August is the time when the greatest care must be exercised in artificial feeding. The baby has less appetite, and is not as well able to digest his food during the excessive heat. On this account he should have less food than usual and it is often wise to weaken the feeding slightly by pouring out one-quarter of the milk and adding the same amount of boiled water to each bottle. If the baby shows any signs of indigestion the time between feeding should be lengthened to 4 hours.

The baby will not gain in weight at such a time, as much as when the weather is cool, but it is far better to feed him less than to induce an attack of diarrhea by giving him more food than he can digest.

Especially during the hot weather, the baby should have plenty of drinking water which has been boiled and cooled. Never give him ice water.

Of course everybody knows about the wonderful wedding ceremony of Speaker Champ Clark's daughter, where everybody in Missouri was invited. The grouping for the ceremony must have been exceedingly picturesque, for the maids, eight of them, wore dainty little short skirts, the flowered bodice with front lace and pinnies, just as coquettish as Little Boopie herself. Waco society will never come into her own until she has had a wedding tableau on the green.

HIPPODROME.

Program for Week.

Monday and Tuesday—"The District Attorney." V. L. S. E. feature with George Soule Spencer and Dorothy Bernard. Pathe News.

Wednesday—"The Fox Woman." Mutual master picture. Pathe News, second edition.

Friday and Saturday—"The Mating." Five-part Thomas H. Ince feature Mutual master picture with Bessie Barriscale and Edna Markey.

"The District Attorney."

The District Attorney, from the celebrated play with the same name is the attraction of the Hippodrome Monday and Tuesday. Dorothy Bernard and George Soule Spencer are the stars.

The picture is the newest Lubin release on the V. L. S. E. program, adapted from the famous political drama by Charles Klein and Harrison Grey Fiske. This stirring play always attracted big audiences when portrayed on the stage and it will no doubt bring out the same large following to see the story unfolded on the screen.

"The District Attorney" is a big story—an impelling story—because it takes commonplace incidents out of American political life and galvanizes them into one of the most gripping plays ever produced. The game, the ward heeler and crooked contracts are familiar terms, but to give them a new meaning is the work of master playwrights. But to interpret this story without words is even a still more notable achievement—an achievement for motion picture progressiveness and the Lubin players, George Soule Spencer plays the part of "The District Attorney" and Dorothy Bernard that of Helen Knight. Charles Brandt is seen as Matthew Brainerd, the "boss," and A. H. Van Buren, the dupe—a quartet of capable players that will insure the success of any play in which they appear.

In adapting "The District Attorney" for motion picture reproduction the Lubin company emphasizes the new idea in photoplay tendency—that of selecting famous plays by famous authors. There have been numerous photoplays of political life, but in bringing out "The District Attorney" the Lubin company sets a new high standard. "The District Attorney" is a clean-cut, whole-souled, wholesome show—a show that makes men think, and leaves a good impression. It has an abundance of thrills, but thrills of the right kind. It is really worth while.

"The Fox Woman."

Now comes the strongest of all film dramas, John Luther Long's Mutual master picture, "The Fox Woman," showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday and Thursday, which is distinctly different.

The author of "Madam Butterfly," John Luther Long, is the creator of the latest Mutual master picture, an exquisitely done Japanese drama in four parts, called "The Fox Woman." It is his first screen drama. Mr. Long has given serious personal consideration to the production, which was (filmed under the immediate direction of Lloyd Ingraham, one of the celebrated D. W. Griffith's most capable assistants, and Mr. Long feels pleased with the result. No more need be said as to the excellence of the screen interpretation given this fantastic conception.

Signe Auen, the fascinating and beautiful young Mutual star, heads the cast in the role of the Fox Woman, the descriptive term applied by the Japanese to the type of creature who preys upon the souls and bodies of the men who attract her. She is ably supported by Teddy Sampson, as the wife, and Elmer Clifton, as the artist. These two young players are among the very best juveniles doing screen work today. To insure proper atmosphere careful attention was paid to the settings, with a result that is charmingly Japanese. Director Ingraham also engaged some fifteen Japanese players to appear in various roles. Among them are such well known film portrayers as G. O. S. Natsuno, Henry Kotani, Gero Kino, Kimi Taka, Minoru Yoshida, Tomi Yoshida, Miss Suma Tanaka and Takashi Azumi.

"The Mating."

A splendid compliment was recently paid Bessie Barriscale, talented star of the five-part Thomas H. Ince feature Mutual master picture showing at the Hippodrome Friday and Saturday, by several hundred screen fans of Los Angeles, many of whom are personally known to her. Under the direction of Producer Thomas H. Ince, Miss Barriscale, garbed in the costume of a country girl, in which she is seen in "The Mating," was seated in an automobile in one of the principal streets of Los Angeles, with a kitten snugly asleep in her arms. Some friend in the crowd, recognizing Miss Barriscale, despite her make-up, set up a cheer and immediately the entire crowd joined in. Miss Barriscale, blushing profusely, later stood up in the car and thanked the crowd in a pretty speech. At her request the men and women moved back from the car, and the scene for which she was posing was completed.

As Eleanor Ames, sister of "Bullet Dick," hero of "The Mating," Margaret Thompson furnished one of the most pleasing characterizations of her career. Miss Thompson appears in support of Bessie Barriscale in this absorbing play of college life and is largely instrumental in the weaving of the romance that culminates in the marriage of the girl from the frumpy village.

Lewis J. Cody, who supports Bessie Barriscale in "The Mating," was well known during his college life as a football star, having played in several championship games. On one occasion during a spectacular end run Cody was tackled and so badly hurt that for a time it was thought he was permanently injured. A robust constitution, however, aided by expert medical attention, brought him around after some months.

Interior and exterior views of a girls' college, in which many of the scenes of "The Mating" are placed, are conceded to be the most realistic ever projected upon a screen.

ORPHEUM.

"The Shooting of Dan McGrew." The poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," by Robert W. Service, from which the Popular Plays and Players made a motion picture of the same name with Edmund Breese in the title role, reads as follows:

"A bunch of the boys were whooping it up
In the Malamute saloon;
The kid that handles the music box
Was hitting a jag-time tune.
Back of the bar, in a solo game,
Sat Dangerous Dan McGrew.
And watching his luck was his light-o'-love,
The lady that's known as Lou.

"When out of the night, which was fifty below,
And into the din and the glare,
There stumbled a miner fresh from the creeks,
Dog-dirty and loaded for bear.
He looked like a man with a foot in the grave,
And scarcely the strength of a house.
Yet he tilted a poke of dust on the bar,
And he called for drinks for the house.
There was none could place the stranger's face,
Though we searched ourselves for a clue;
But we drank his health, and the last to drink
Was Dangerous Dan McGrew.

"His eyes went rubbering round the room,
And he seemed in a kind of daze,
Till at last that old piano fell
In the way of his wandering gaze.
The rag-time kid was having a drink;
There was no one else on the stool,
So the stranger stumbles across the room,
And flops down there like a fool.
In a buckskin shirt that was glazed with dirt
He sat, and I saw him sway;
Then he clutched the keys with his talon hands,
My God! but that man could play.

"Were you ever out in the Great Alone,
When the moon was awful clear,
And the icy mountains hemmed you in
With a silence you most could hear?
With only the howl of a timber wolf,
And you camped there in the cold,
A half-dead thing in a stark-dead world,
Clean mad for the muck called gold;
While high overhead, green, yellow and red,
The North lights swept in bars?
—Then you've a hunch what the music meant—
Hunger and night and the stars.

"The music almost died away,
Then it burst like a pent-up flood;
And it seemed to say, 'Repay, repay,'
And my eyes were blind with blood.
The thought came back of an ancient wrong,
And it stung like a frozen lash,
And the lust awoke to kill, to kill—
Then the music stopped with a crash.
And the stranger turned, and his eyes they burned,
In a most peculiar way;
In a buckskin shirt that was glazed with dirt
He sat, and I saw him sway;
Then his lips went in a kind of grin,
And he spoke, and his voice was calm,
And 'Boys,' says he, 'You don't know me,
And none of you care a damn;
But I want to state, and my words are straight,
And I'll bet my poke they're true,
That one of you is a hand of hell—
And that one is Dan McGrew.'"

"Then I ducked my head, and the lights went out,
And two guns blazed in the dark,
And a woman screamed and the lights went up,
And two men lay stiff and stark!
Pitched on his head, and pumped full of lead,
Was Dangerous Dan McGrew,
While the man from the creeks lay clutched to the breast
Of the lady that's known as Lou."

"The Shooting of Dan McGrew" comes to the Orpheum theatre (formerly the Cozy) Monday and Tuesday, July 19-20.

THIS WEEK AT THE REX.

"The Devil," "The Cup of Life," and Other Successes.
The Rex theatre will offer most auspicious picture presentations this week. Charlie Chaplin comes Monday in a brand new copy of one of his early successes, "Between Showers"—a comedy that has not been seen as often as many of his other laugh-makers.

Tuesday Bessie Barriscale and Edward Connelly, assisted by Arthur Maude, Rhea Mitchell and others will interpret the Franz Molnar stage success, "The Devil," which has swept audiences off their feet for the past month.

Wednesday, Fay Tincher, popular star of the Komic pictures will make merry in "Poppo, the Barber," said to be a very good comedy. Also the two part Domino, "The Man From Nowhere," and "The Zaca Yake Mystery," with ever-popular Winifred Greenwood will be shown.

Thursday Bessie Barriscale plays a special engagement in her most celebrated success, "The Cup of Life," in which she is ably assisted by Edna Markey, Frank Borzage, Arthur Maude, J. Barney Sherry, Louise Glaum and others. The story of "The Cup of Life" discloses a moral lesson in pictures.

For Saturday, the manager of the Rex has arranged a highly enjoyable menu of comedy films and fairy story for the special children's day, "Jack and the Beanstalk," being the most momentous though the two part Keystone production, "The Court House Crooks," which features Ford Sterling, Minta Durfee and Charles Arling has been pronounced the best comedy hit released in months and being a really, honest-to-goodness-dyed-in-the-wool first run picture, will doubtless run a fast race with children as well as adults.

The manager of the Rex announces that he is highly pleased with the ready response of the mothers and children to his special Children's Days, the attendance being far better than was anticipated it would be at first.

"The Devil."

Cynical folk are prone to disbelieve in a personal devil, indeed it would be difficult to find a single witness who could testify to having actually viewed His Satanic Majesty. But as we have the following on the best authority, we present it to our readers without comment, leaving them to judge of the facts for themselves.

RHEA MITCHELL, the BRONCHO-MUTUAL STAR—

Society had once connected, however unjustly, the name of the beautiful Isabella with that of Harry Lang, the famous portrait painter. When Isabella married the wealthy Alfred Zanden, it discussed the affair again, asserting that but for Lang's poverty the fair one would have been content to share his fortunes, forever and ever. It did not concern the gossips that since that time Lang had prospered much, nor that he had developed a brand new "affaire de coeur" with Milli, quite the prettiest of the models who came to his studio. It is needless to record also, that the Devil had made note of these things.

As a matter of fact, the Devil has a hard job. He greatly regrets the slip that made him what he is, and is eternally seeking a moral who will resist temptation. When he finds this particular individual—at least, so 'tis said—he will be able to regain Paradise. Which is one of the reasons why he keeps so busy.

It must have been he who brought news of this gossip to Zanden. Perhaps it was he too who suggested to Zanden that the best way to allay this talk was to commission Lang to paint the portrait of the fair Isabella. At all events, that is what Zanden did, bringing his wife to the studio himself, for her first sitting.

After telling Lang, who was at some pains to get Milli out of the way, that he wished him to paint a bust of his wife, Zanden left, while his wife retired to an ante-room to drape herself in a fashion which would best display the charms of her graceful neck and rounded shoulders.

The best proof that the Devil had planned all this, was that he straightway appeared to her, not in his real form of course, but in the guise of a Dr. Miller, whom he claimed was the faithful friend of Lang, having saved his life and fortune. So plausible was he that Isabella never doubted a word of all that he said, even after he had gone as mysteriously as he had come.

Soon afterward, the engagement of Lang to Isabella, an intimate friend of Isabella, was announced and the latter held a reception in honor of the couple, to which the Devil arranged to be invited. By one of the ruses for which he is famous—or infamous, just as you like—he convinced Lang that Isabella would appear garbed in a long cloak, but otherwise garmentless. At his instigation Lang called upon his hostess to throw off her robe, but she indignantly refused. However, when her husband and the other guests entered, she revealed herself, fully clad, much to the artist's confusion.

When the guests had gone Isabella determined to write Lang that he must never see her again. But the Devil, having other plans, joined her and persuaded her to write him that she would forsake her husband and fly with him, which was what she really meant, anyway. Then he took her letter, promising to deliver it in person. In the meantime he had arranged it, so that Milli, jealous and miserable, had told Isabella of Lang's unfaithful nature, and the two women left the studio consoling each other, each vowing that never more would they be victims of the perfidy of man.

Shortly afterward, while the Devil chucked to himself, having caused all the trouble possible, Isabella appeared and demanded her letter. The Devil had neglected to deliver it, still having hopes that here at last might be one couple who would resist temptation. As a matter of fact, Isabella had come to the studio with the firm resolve to tell Lang that in future they must not see each other, and that the letter was the product of a moment of weakness. But when she saw him she forgot all she had planned to say, her good intentions, being no stronger than the next one's, vanished and went the way of their kind, which, it is said, forms most of the paving material on the way to the Devil's home address.

So the Devil's hopes proved vain, for Isabella and Lang could not forget that they had once been lovers, and were soon vowing to live only for each other without a thought of Zanden, Elsa or the unfortunate Milli.

The Devil watched their love-making with a sigh. Then he stamped his foot, the floor opened, and he returned to the place which is his especial domain. There, years later, he greeted Lang and Isabella, who pleaded for mercy. The Devil shook his head. "You had your chance," he said. "Why did you put it from you?" Then he called to hisimps who took Isabella and Lang away weeping vainly.

Bessie Barriscale, Edward Connelly, Rhea Mitchell, Arthur Maude and other players interpret the characters of the play in the Masterpicture to be shown Tuesday, July 20, at the Rex.

ALAMO.

"Only a Dream."

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, a brand-new musical farce comedy, laid in the advanced year of 1909, entitled "Only a Dream," will be introduced by the popular company. The new members, Tonie Klumker and Miss Virginia Grey, have made a decided hit and are sure to be a phenomenal success in Waco. Mr. Klumker is a comedian that is hard to excel and his work in the comedy, "That's My Wife," was far above the average, and his dancing was received with much applause.

Miss Grey is a very clever entertainer and also played her part excellently. In "Only a Dream," this team of talented artists will have great chances to display their talents. CONGRESSMAN HENRY GIVES OUT PLATFORM

MAN WHO HAS REPRESENTED THIS DISTRICT TELLS WHY HE WOULD GO TO SENATE.

DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

Opposition to National Prohibition One of Planks Given Considerable Emphasis.

Congressman R. L. Henry of Waco makes the following formal announcement of his senatorial candidacy, outlining his platform of principles:

"To the Democracy of Texas:

"By this formal statement I announce my candidacy for United States senator in the primaries of 1916 upon the following declaration of principles:

"In 1896 I became a representative in congress and my constituency have honored me with ten consecutive terms. It is right to here express my gratitude to my people for honoring me with a congress extending through twenty years. As a test of my qualifications and fidelity, I cheerfully refer to my constituency.

"It is appropriate that the voters of Texas know the quality of my democratic and my position on the political issues at this time.

First, Pledges to My Constituency.

"When a candidate for representative I promised to support a policy of tariff revision to provide adequate revenue unimpaired by elements of protectionism; the election of United States senators by direct vote; an income tax law; the strengthening of the anti-trust laws; reformation of our currency system, with a view of destroying the money trust. Constantly I have urged all these things, and they are now law by and through the joint efforts of those believing in their efficiency. These pledges have been sacredly observed by me during my congressional career, and I experience great pride in their redemption.

Second, Defense of the Wilson Administration.

"In the senatorial campaign I shall defend the Wilson administration, the tariff, the currency, and the anti-trust acts and the constructive legislation of the democratic party are sound and characterized with wisdom and should not be repealed. They shall have ready support and defense on all occasions.

Third, Rural Credits.

"The Baltimore platform declaring that rural credits legislation is of equal importance to the reformation of our currency laws, democracy should immediately redeem that promise. Having studied the question for many months, I suggest legislation upon substantially these principles:

"Provide for organizing national farm loan associations, with federal charters and governmental aid, of not less than five farmers, in certain districts throughout the United States, for the purpose of making long time loans on farm lands at a rate of interest not to exceed 6 per cent per annum, for the purpose of improving farm lands already acquired and for enabling tenants and those without homes to purchase and improve farms and broad acres. These associations should be federated in twelve federal land banks, corresponding substantially to the twelve federal reserve banks. The details should be so worked out under the amortization plan as to allow these mortgages to run for thirty-five or more years, and should permit paying off present incumbrances of more than $5,000,000,000 so as to reduce interest rate and burdens. And as members of the federal land banks, these associations should be allowed to use the farm mortgages as collateral with said land banks for the purpose of converting them into cash and as basis for farm loan bonds or debentures.

Twelve Federal Land Banks.

"The government should authorize the establishment of twelve federal land banks, with a capital stock of not less than $500,000 each, for the purpose of buying mortgages from the land associations, and of raising the capital thereof by issuing farm bonds or debentures.

Government Deposits in the Federal Land Banks.

"The law should allow the secretary of the treasury to deposit in the federal land banks one-half of the general fund held in the treasury of the United States in order that such banks may use this government money to securely establish and maintain this rural credits system. The credit of the government should be furnished in this and other ways in abundant measure to place the farmers' banking machinery upon the surest foundation. The commercial banking act is saturated with government aid. The government should subscribe for the stock of the federal land banks, provided the subscriptions of farm loan associations and other subscribers are not sufficient.

"It should be provided that the government credit and funds are placed behind these banks in abundant fashion. The federal government should obligate itself to purchase each year $50,000,000 or more of these farm loan bonds. It should come squarely to the aid of these banks and if necessary, even guarantee all their bonds.

Separate and Distinct System for Farmers.

"A farm loan board should be created in the treasury department, at Washington, analogous to the federal reserve board and endowed with substantially the same powers. This system should be entirely separate and distinct from the federal reserve act. State institutions should be allowed to enter the system. These are the essential and fundamental points of the legislation I shall advocate.

"By this method let us make it possible for farmers to lighten their burdens and for the millions of worthy and homeless men, tenants and laborers, to acquire farms and pay for them under the amortization plan in periods running from five to thirty-five years at a very low rate of interest, and in no event to exceed 6 per cent per annum. In this way we guarantee homes for the homeless and lands for the landless. And thus we can put upon the uncultivated lands in Texas, amounting to a hundred million acres, sturdy farmers and homebuilders.

Fourth, For the Relief of the Cotton Growers and Farmers.

"The principle of the bills introduced by me for the relief of the cotton growers will be an issue and I shall defend these measures.

"In addition to what the secretary of the treasury and the federal reserve board have ample authority for doing now to finance the present cotton crop, the things proposed by me in congress last year should be speedily adopted by congress.

"Still a representative in congress, I am ready to render relief to the cotton grower should the European war again menace the price of his crop. The same fight will be made by me to induce the federal government to finance their needs. Under such conditions the government should deposit in the national and state banks of the South $250,000,000 or more, to be advanced to the producers of cotton at a low rate of interest for one year or longer. For such purpose redeemable United States notes should be issued to that extent, or Panama canal bonds should be sold and the proceeds added to such notes to bring such funds up to that amount and as much more as may be required. I shall insist that the secretary of the treasury deposit these public moneys as a trust fund to be loaned to the cotton growers as he did when he went to New York city banks on August second, last year, week and with much larger sums on subsequent days, aggregating $140,000,000, to steady the stock market on Wall street. The cotton can be pledged at its market value and thus become the best known security for the loans. The government should do this with free and lavish hand, and I pledge myself to renew the contest if the circumstances are the same.

"Upon these issues I shall go to the people and invoke their judgment.

"Being opposed to national prohibition, and in strict accordance with President Wilson's well known views, I shall earnestly urge the people to cease its agitation. A further program of constructive legislation is needed and neither this nor any other moral issue should be allowed to imperil it.

"For the first time by direct vote, Texas will elect her senator and I cheerish the ambition to be thus commissioned by my native state with the hope that my long congressional experience would enable me to render some service to this great commonwealth.

"R. L. HENRY."

Details Complete for Old Settlers' Picnic on Saturday

Practically every detail for the McLennan county Old Settlers' picnic to be held at Cameron park next Saturday, the 24th, has been arranged.

Mrs. John F. Marshall, chairman of the ladies' reception committee, requests that all members of her committee meet at the public library, Twelfth and Austin, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Col. Wm. Poage, chairman, reports wonderful interest in the event, and states that it will be one of the best attended reunions in the history of the movement. He said: "A very entertaining program has been arranged, including features that will be specially delightful to the old settlers, including short, reminiscent talks, old darky stunts, etc. The day will be spent in solid comfort, in beautiful Cameron park, amid the shade and among dear old friends, in a good old-time way.

"A great many have promised to bring well filled baskets—in fact, all with whom I have talked will do that and a most bounteous repast will be enjoyed by all us old settlers. It may be a final reunion of some of the dear old folks, who knows? and all of the committees seem to be working with the one end in view—that of affording comfort and solid enjoyment to those who came here in the pioneer days and made it possible for the present-day city, up to date and busy in its various departments, and we will all take a day off to do honor to those to whom honor is due."

Good Showing Made by Maxwell Cars

The following letter has been sent by the company to all Maxwell dealers:

"A record for consistency—yes, a most fitting climax to America's great patriotic celebration, when the Maxwell, an American car, made its third great speed record and established a record for durability and consistency that has never yet been equalled.

"An emphatic indorsement for Maxwell construction and design has been given in the last ten days' racing. Viewing it from the point of 'place,' it was really a wonder record. But viewing it from the standpoint of 'good old American consistency,' it was par excellence.

"The first American car to finish at Chicago's great 500-mile race, June 26, was a Maxwell. Rickenbacher and his Maxwell won third place with an average speed of ninety-six miles an hour. His car was in perfect condition at the end of the race and one hour afterward was being loaded for shipment to Sioux City, Iowa.

"At Sioux City, July 3, Rickenbacher driving the identical Maxwell car he drove at Chicago, won first place, and led the entire field every lap in the race but one. Over a heavy dirt track, for 300 miles his car showed a perfect score, while the car driven by Resta, winner of the Chicago 500-mile board race, went out in the seventh lap. Another Maxwell, driven by Tom Orr, won fourth place.

"Again, July 5, at Omaha, Neb., after two hard, long grinds, with scarcely enough time to get his car to the track, the Maxwell driven by Rickenbacher won first place at an average speed of 91.7 miles an hour. He was fifteen laps ahead of his nearest rival. The second Maxwell, driven by Tom Orr, won third place.

"The Maxwell record in these three great races, held within ten days, proves beyond doubt Maxwell's right to the title of first place for consistency and durability among both American and foreign cars.

"A total of 1,100 miles, traveled at a terrific rate of speed and no mechanical troubles of any nature, for the Maxwell.

"Two of these hard, 300-mile grinds within seventy-two hours of each other and the Maxwell winning first in each event.

"Can you conceive of a greater test of the quality of any car than this? "In all racing history no racing team has yet made a record that equals this. Conclusive proof that Maxwell's engineering, materials and workmanship are of the best."

GAME IS ALMOST PERFECT

Too Well Played and Lacking in Thrills to be Keenly Interesting, But Both Sides Have Pep.

'Twas a beautiful afternoon in July, not so rare as Lowell's day in June, but rare enough. Little rivulets flowed unchecked from eighteen tolling athletes' brows. The scene in the grandstand was peaceful unto the sublime. But not so on the diamond. Despite the conscientious efforts of Old Sol to take the pep from the exponents of the national game representing Waco and Shreveport, they refused to be de-peppered. They had pep a-plenty. As a result an almost perfect exhibition was staged on the sunlit field. Too well played to be keenly interesting, but then nothing short of a swiftest—or a Waco loss would have stirred up the lethargic crowd.

There was no swiftest—and no Waco loss. The Nags got away with the fifty contest 4 to 1. True the fans bestirred themselves a trifle when the score board showed the Bronchos had jumped right into the fray in the first round and taken four runs from the Pirates. They multiplaudly applauded the warriors two hundred miles away on the Santone lot, but this possibly from conscience.

Anyway, the Skippers gained a game—again on the Pirates and again stand but a half game from the coveted first place.

It was an ideal combination that worked to the benefit of the class-looking Gassers—a combination that unfortunately since the club returned, namely a pitcher going like a house on fire and the big hitters doing their duty. Eddie Donalds, according to those who have seen most of his work this season, including his no-hit game at Shreveport, pitched the greatest game of his career yesterday.

Whether this is a little too strong is debatable, but certain it is, he has never appeared to better advantage on the home lot than he did yesterday. Getting the first one on almost every batter, especially in the last part of the game, he kept the visitors easily at his mercy. He allowed but four hits, and at that when the thing was sewed up he seemed lay back and depended on his support.

While there were few sensational defensive plays either team, the work of both clubs in the field was excellent. Hendrix, who did slab duty for Smith's crowd, had a fine assortment of stuff and his control was good. Waco's heavy hitters got back into the game for the first time since the return off of their long trip and hammered out a clean victory.

Schrader was the only Gasser who could solve the puzzle of the center field in the first inning and a triple in the sixth being the only two by one player.

Shreveport scored its run in the ninth inning. McElveen doubled to center field. Schrader hit a long fly to James in right field. Barr hopped one near first base which Grubb got after a sensational run. Knaupp hit through second, the ball looping over Malmquist's head and McElveen scored.

Waco scored two in the first inning. With one out, Coyle hit to center field. Crichtlow hit to right. James fled out. Walters doubled Coyle and Crichtlow.

In the seventh Waco made two more. With one out Grubb doubled to left field. Donalds advanced him to left. Tanager hit a line drive to center field which took a bad hop out of the reach of Murphy and Grubb scored. Tanager went to third. Coyle walked and Crichtlow lunged to right field, scoring Tanager.

Both Dallas runs came from Renfer's poor throwing to second. Kellerman was put out of the game for disputing a decision at the plate.

BAYLOR SOCIETIES ARE GETTING BUSY

MID-SUMMER DEBATE WILL BE HELD ON THE NIGHT OF AUGUST 6TH.

WATERMELON CUTTING ENJOYED

Tennis Tournament Being Planned.
Good Progress in New Athletic Building.

The members of both literary societies at Baylor university are now beginning very active preparations for the fall campaign for new members, which is always a feature of the fall opening. On next Thursday the Eri-sophians and R. C. B.'s will get out a special edition of the Lariat, the weekly paper. In charge of this are Carey Bowles and Lemuel Hall and a staff has been appointed from the two societies. This will be followed on Thursday of the next week by a special Philomathesian-Callopean edition under the direction of Harold Walker, editor-in-chief, and Mae Cagle and E. H. Suhr, assistants. E. H. Suhr was also elected as campaign manager to succeed E. D. Guthrie, who had resigned. The time for the inter-society debate has been set for the night of Aug. 6, and the question agreed upon is, "Resolved: That a national board of arbitration with compulsory powers should be established to settle disputes between capital and labor, constitutionality conceded." The debate will be practically extemporaneous, since the speakers will study the subject and then choose sides only forty-eight hours before the debate.

The members of the class which will graduate at the close of the summer school have met and organized for the summer. There are more than fifteen of these, and they elected Emil Mikeska of West, Texas, president, and Jessie Wheeler of Marlow, Okla., secretary. A number of social events and picnics are planned, and they will be joined in these by a number of the June class who live in the city. Since a number of others who are doing work in absentia will return about twenty will receive degrees during the first week of September.

Lectures on Campus.
President Brooks has received an invitation to attend the great international peace congress, which will be held in San Francisco, Oct. 10-12, 1915, under the auspices of the Church Peace union and the American Peace society.

E. W. Provence will give, on the evening of July 19, a campus lecture on Japan, illustrated by a number of stereopticon views which he has quite recently obtained. Mr. Provence, who is now manager of the University Press and Book Concern, spent several years in Japan as a teacher in the government schools and thus obtained an intimate knowledge of the people and their customs which will add immensely to the interest of the views. He will give a discussion of the land and people and the incidents will be related in connection with the various slides. First-hand illustrated knowledge about Japan is appreciated in this day of the growth of these little yellow peoples across the Pacific, and a large audience is expected.

J. L. Quicksall, the local representative of the national department of agriculture, will address the normal teachers and others who may be interested at 8 o'clock, 9:30, tomorrow morning. His lecture will have to do especially with various phases of the teaching of agriculture. Dr. and Mrs. Downer announce that they will be at home to the summer students in the Latin department Tuesday evenings from 8 to 10. A number of former students living in the city will assist them in entertaining.

The feature of Friday evening's story hour was the illustration by chalk drawings of a number of songs by Mrs. Miller, who is well known over the state for her crayon work of this kind. Miss Lota Pharr gave a reading from James Whitcomb Riley, and Miss Martin told the story for the young folks.

Watermelon Cutting.

The chief social event of the summer school was the watermelon cutting on the campus last evening at 8 o'clock. Several hundred melons, furnished and iced by the university authorities, were served to about 500 students who were gathered on the campus for the occasion. For over an hour the campus seemed to be literally overflowing with watermelons, and the crowd then amused themselves in games and in the customary style of a Baylor reception. This is an annual treat from the university to the students of the normal and summer school.

From 6 to 8 Saturday evening Dr. and Mrs. Downer entertained his Fidelis class from the First Baptist Sunday school. It is a matter of course, entirely of Baylor girls from the summer session, to whom the informal al fresco luncheon was a much appreciated treat.

Prof. Joseph E. Hawkins of the modern language department and Mrs. Hawkins will have charge of the Girls' Co-operative home during the coming year. Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Spencer, who have had charge of the home for several years, will be in New Haven, where Mr. Spencer will attend the graduate school of Yale university and do special work in the department of chemistry. A large, two-story building at 629 Spaight will also be added to the number of houses used in this co-operative plan, and by this means about twenty more girls can be accommodated than heretofore.

Tennis Tournament Planned.

The chief athletic sport of the summer being tennis, a tournament is being planned to be held on the Baylor courts during the coming week. The interest in tennis is at its height during the summer term and a large entry is expected, since there are three members of the university team in the city, and a number of prominent players are on the faculty. Later an open championship of the city will be held, and players from all over the city will be especially invited to participate. The work on the athletic building is progressing rapidly and the brick walls are now rising a few feet above the ground. Mr. Gantt, the faculty manager, is already arranging for the furnishing of the building, and is paying special attention to the athletic trophy room. Here he intends to place the pictures of some of Baylor's most noted former athletes, and from the present time on the pictures of all teams will be placed there.
